

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE compilation of the pedigrees in this, the second volume of the COLONIAL GENTRY, has proved a pleasant task to the Editor, and the result of his labours will, it is hoped, be found by the reader both useful to consult and interesting to peruse. It is surely unnecessary to dwell on the utility of a work which preserves in a convenient and permanent manner the records of the leading families in the Colonies, and serves to show to those at home and abroad the close bonds of kinship that unite the Sister Colonies to one another and to the Mother Country. All classes in these Colonies must entertain some interest in a work concerning their relations, friends, and neighbours. It was a happy thought of the late author to extend the area of his labours, which had already produced works found indispensable in every library, and to undertake the COLONIAL GENTRY at a time when it was still possible to collect full and reliable information concerning the origin and ancestry of the pioneers of colonisation in Her Majesty's more distant possessions. The subject cannot fail to attract the attention of the present generation and will be of absorbing interest to their descendants.

To every student of family history it will be pleasant to note that so many well-known and distinguished families at home have sent their younger sons to win their spurs in the Colonies and to add new lustre to the family renown. Many names suggest themselves in this connexion, but to instance a few, mentioned in this second volume, we find England represented by cadets of the houses of Onslow, Montagu, Wollaston, Rawson, Townshend, Clifford, Amherst, Cayley, and Weld; Scotland by Graham, Balfour, Chisholm, Campbell, Dennistoun, Græme, Macdonell, and Ogilvie; Ireland, by Martin, Hamilton, Wolfe, McCartney, D'Arcy, Blake, Orpen, Perceval, Aylmer, and Grey; and Wales, by Powys, Lloyd, and Williams; while such names as Sturt, Featherston, Learmonth, Youl, Grey, Duffy, Samuel, Jennings, Brodribb, de Labillière, Angas, Horrocks, Macdonald, Archer, and Ridout, cannot fail to interest every student of the history of Colonial enterprise and progress.

No labour has been spared on my part in the preparation of this volume ; every source of information has been exhausted within the limits of time at my command, and a correspondence carried on which has secured many thousand communications from those most competent to improve and correct the pedigrees that have been compiled. My great aim has been to arrive at accuracy, but the time of no individual, however painstaking, would be sufficient for a work of this extent, were it to depend solely upon his own knowledge and research. I have therefore taken advantage, as, of old, did the heralds in their visitations, of information that has been freely and courteously given me by the chiefs and scions of families, derived from their private papers, traditions, and genealogies. The law of England admits as evidence the declarations of members of a family regarding their near relations, and here we have that evidence most largely contributed. Occasionally inaccurate information may be furnished ; but this exception to the general rule is not of frequent occurrence. The statements of pedigree thus subjected to the public eye challenge inquiry, and if there be error, either inadvertent or wilful, that error will be sure some day or other to be detected and set right. The result of such criticism which, indeed, I invite, cannot but enhance in the future the value of the work.

With respect to the arms attached to the memoirs, those only that I can vouch for are printed in ordinary type ; the remainder of the arms, printed in italics, though actually in use, are, I regret to say, borne without authority, and are for the most part mere assumptions of the armorial bearings of families resident in England, Ireland, and Scotland, with whom no relationship is proved.

I venture to call the special attention of my readers to the very complete index of both volumes which I have placed at the end of this book. It contains the names and addresses of those Colonial gentlemen to whom reference is made or whose pedigrees are given.

May I acknowledge my deep debt of gratitude to all those, including Mr. A. A. Heron, who have helped in my task ? I wish I could tender to each one my thanks, but the list is so formidable as to preclude the possibility of this. My first thanks are, however, due to the heads of families, who have one and all given me every assistance in their power. To none of the able genealogists who have collaborated with me, am I more indebted than to Mr. E. M. Chadwick, of Toronto, who has so generously allowed me to make full use of his indefatigable researches concerning Ontarian families.

I should not have been able, however, to carry this undertaking to a successful issue, were it not for the heraldic and genealogical skill and knowledge of my brother, Mr. H. Farnham Burke, the Somerset Herald, of Her Majesty's College of Arms, whom I have consulted on every point of difficulty.

Many pedigrees, which have not been completed in time for insertion in these pages, will be included in a future volume, upon which I am now engaged. Need I add how happy I shall be to give my best attention to all communications and letters relating to family story in the Colonies, and to afford my correspondents every assistance in my power in the further elucidation of their pedigrees?

II. Elizabeth, m. Sir John LYON, of Glamis.

The only son,

MALISE (a minor in 1421) s. his mother as Earl Palatine of Strathern, but was deprived of the Earldom by JAMES I, in 1427, under pretence that it was a male fief. The King then conferred it on his aged uncle, Walter, Earl of Athol, by charter, 22nd July, 1427, and on 6th September, 1427, erected the lands of Craynis, etc., into the Earldom of Menteth (or Monteith), and gave it to Malise, and the heirs male of his body, failing which to return to the Crown. The Earl went to England, 9th December, 1427, as a supplementary hostage in place of Robert Erskine, and was not released till 17th June, 1453, when he was ordered to be liberated out of the Castle of Pontefract, Alexander, his son and heir, surrendering himself as a hostage in his stead, and the Earl of Douglas and Lord Hamilton becoming sureties for his return in the event of Alexander dying or escaping. Malise, Earl of Menteth, d. before 17th May, 1491, when Marioun, Countess of Menteth, John of Drummond, her spouse, and John, Lord Drummond, appeared as pursuers in a civil cause, and the deceased Malise, Earl of Menteth, is mentioned, also Alexander, then Earl of Menteth. Malise, Earl of Menteth, m. first, Lady ANNIE VERR, daughter of Henry, Earl of Oxford, or Jane Rochford, and had four sons,

I. Alexander, son and heir, 17th June, 1453, a prisoner at Pontefract, as hostage for his father.

II. John, of Kilbryde, was son and heir, 6th April, 1649; he was called "Sir John with the Bright Sword," from whom the GRAHAMS, Viscounts of Preston (extinct 1738); the GRAHAMS of Gartmore; the GRAHAMS of Netherby; the GRAHAMS of Norton Conyers; and other illustrious families claim descent, but of this there is no proof.

III. Patrick, son and heir, 1478.

IV. Walter, first of the GRAHAMS of Buchquhapple.

His successor,

ALEXANDER GRAHAM, SECOND EARL OF MENTETH, was served heir to his "grantschyrr," Malise, 6th May, 1493,† m. Margaret, daughter

* This lady being the first cousin of King ROBERT II's mother, dispensation for the marriage was obtained from POPE INNOCENT VI, at Avignon, 2nd May, 1355.

† David, Earl of Strathern, was created Earl of Caithness to him and his heirs, before November, 1375, and his daughter Euphemia resigned the Earldom before 1406.

The elder son,

WILLIAM GRAHAM, THIRD EARL OF MENTETH, m. Margaret, daughter of John MOWBRAY of Barnbogle, and d. before June, 1545, leaving issue,

I. JOHN, fourth Earl.

II. Robert, of Gartmore, who d. s. p.

III. Gilbert, of Gartmore, whose male line is extinct.

I. Margaret, m. Archibald, fourth Earl of Argyll, and had issue.

The eldest son,

JOHN GRAHAM, FOURTH EARL OF MENTETH, was one of the prisoners taken at the rout of Solway, 1542, and ransomed for 200 marks, 1st July, 1543, being designed in Rymer, Lord Monkereth. He m. Marion, eldest daughter of George, fifth Lord SETON, and was killed in a scuffle with the tutor of Appin in October, 1547,* having by her (who m. secondly, John, tenth Earl of Sutherland) had issue,

I. WILLIAM, fifth Earl.

II. George, of Rednoch, whose son,

James, had a charter of the King's lands of Easter Rednoch, in Perthshire, 12th June, 1598, and left a daughter, Marian, who brought that estate to her husband, JOHN GRAHAM, of Duchray.

I. Mary, m. John BUCHANAN, of Buchanan.

II. Christian m. Sir William LIVINGSTON, of Kilsyth.

The elder son,

WILLIAM GRAHAM, FIFTH EARL OF MENTETH, m. Margaret, eldest daughter of Sir James DOUGLAS, of Drumlanrig, and widow of Edward, Lord Crichton, of Sanquhar, and d. before October, 1587, having by her (who m. thirdly, WAUCHOPE of Niddry) had a son,

JOHN GRAHAM, SIXTH EARL OF MENTETH, was served heir to his father, 21st October, 1587, m. Mary, third daughter of Sir Colin CAMPBELL, of Glenorchy, and d. in December, 1598, leaving issue, Marion, m. Walter GRAHAM, of Gartur.

I. Christian, m. Sir John BLACKADDER, of Tulliallan.

The elder son,

WILLIAM GRAHAM, SEVENTH EARL OF MENTETH, or MENTEITH, b. 1589, s. his father in December, 1598, and was served heir to him 7th August, 1610. He m. 1611 (contract dated 30th January, 1610-11) Agnes, daughter of Patrick, seventh Lord Gray. He was constituted in August, 1628, Chief Justice General of Scotland, and in the November following, an extraordinary lord of session; and in 1629, was appointed President of the Privy Council. On the 25th May, 1630, he was served heir of David Stewart, Earl of Strathern, of Patrick Graham, Earl of Strathern, and of Malise, Earl of Menteith. Standing high in the royal favour of CHARLES I, he had charters of various lands and baronies from 1626 to 1632, amongst which was a charter of the lands and baronies of Airth. He obtained the title of Earl of Strathern by patent, July, 1631, being styled Earl of Strathern and Menteith, &c. The fable, generally credited at the time, but clearly disproved by the actual dispensation found at the Vatican, concerning the validity of the first marriage of King ROBERT II and Elizabeth Mure caused King CHARLES I and his ministers considerable uneasiness, enhanced by the Earl's pretensions, for in his service for the Earldom of Strathern, while solemnly renouncing his claim to the Crown, he reserved the right of his blood, which he incautiously asserted to be "the reddest in Scotland." The King, on the strong remonstrances of his ministers and Sir William Drummond, of Hawthornden, ordered a law form to be gone through to cancel the Earl's retour and patent, and the Court did accordingly set them aside, and deprived him of his patent not only of the Earldom of Strathern, but also that of Menteith, 22nd March, 1633. Thus stripped of his honours, the King was pleased to confer by patent (dated 21st January, sealed 28th March, 1633) the title of EARL OF AIRTH, annexing to the same the Earldom of Menteith, with precedence from the date of the original patent of that honour, namely 6th September, 1428, to him and to his heirs. His lordship was about the same time deprived of his public offices and retired to his castle in the Loch of Menteith, where he d. before 26th September, 1662, having had with other issue,

I. JOHN, LORD GRAHAM OF KILPONT AND KILBRYDE, of whom presently.

The melancholy fate of this gallant young cavalier, and the singular circumstances attending the birth and history of his murderer (who was pardoned by Parliament in 1645), are the facts on which Sir Walter Scott has founded his beautiful "Legend of Montrose." Lord Kilpont, thus dying in the lifetime of his father, left issue,

- I. WILLIAM, who s. his grandfather as second Earl of Airth and eighth Earl of Monteith, b. before January, 1644, m. first, Anne HEWES, and secondly, Catherine, second daughter of Thomas BIRCH, of Blairhall, which lady d. in 1693. Lineage.

This is an old yeoman family owning land at Morton in Craven, co. York, since 1530, and they still retain a small freehold property there which justifies their claim to a vote in the West Riding of Yorkshire for nearly four hundred years. John Beanlands was a landowner, near Wynchcombe, temp. HENRY III. The last of his name, Matthew Beanlands, held a knight's fee, in Perschenet and Herkedestone, co. Hereford, temp. HENRY VI. Secretary to the conference on Colonial questions in 1871, and to the Imperial Federation League, the formation of which he was the first to suggest. From 1874 to 1881, as a member of the council of the Royal Colonial Institute, he assisted Sir Frederick Young in his work of Honorary Secretary to the society before it was in a position to maintain a paid staff. He was the first to propose the annexation of Eastern New Guinea in a letter addressed to the Secretary of State for the Colonies in 1874. Besides many papers and articles he published in 1878, his Early History of the Colony of Victoria, in two vols., and in 1894, Federal Britain, or the Unity and Federation of the Empire.

Lineage.

This family is of Huguenot origin, and can be traced amongst the nobility of Languedoc, as far back as the twelfth century. It was the senior and is now the only branch represented in the male line, of the very ancient family of "De la Cour," originally "de Curia" of the Cevennes. Dalmace de la Cour, or Dalmacius de Curia is mentioned in 1113. Guillaume de la Cour lived at the Château d'Esparon, on a commanding eminence, near Aulas in 1264. Only one link is wanting in the chain of pedigree between him and Bernard, with whom the unbroken line begins.

GUILLAUME DE LA COUR, of ancient and noble lineage in the province of Languedoc (son of BERNARD DE LA COUR, of Le Plan, near Aulas, by his wife Sauxie, and whose will is dated 2nd January, 1460), m. 23rd January, 1466, Flora Réal, and d. (will dated 2nd April, 1502) leaving a son,

JEAN DE LA COUR, who in 1480 proved the nobility of his ancestors, m. (wife called Noble Aurable) and d. (will dated 24th October, 1544) leaving a son,

ANDRÉ DE LA COUR, Seigneur de la Billière, first so styled, m. Jeanne, daughter of Jean DE MARDAJORS, Seigneur d'Aleynac et Desplantière, and d. (will dated 13th July, 1578), leaving a son,

FULCRAND DE LA COUR m. 17th June, 1582, Liette DE TARRON, and d. (will dated 30th March, 1637, in which he declared himself a Protestant) leaving with other issue [from one of whom Pierre, sprang a junior branch (now extinct), of Montcamp, in France], a son, ANDRÉ DE LA COUR, m. 9th January, 1611, Jeanne DE BILANÈS, and had (with a younger son, Pierre, Seigneur de la Gardiolle; b. 29th November, 1621, who d. a Huguenot refugee, in England), PAUL, of whom presently.

André de la Cour's will is dated 30th August, 1661. His son,

PAUL DE LA COUR, styled Seigneur de la Gardiolle, m. 22nd November, 1642, Claude, daughter of Henri de Vissec, Sieur de Pradines, d. in the camp before Lerida, in 1646, leaving a son,

CHARLES DE LA COUR, Seigneur de la Billière, m. 7th November, 1664, Française, daughter of Etienne DE QUATREFAGES, of Breau, near Aulas, from which family was descended the eminent French naturalist, now deceased. Charles and his uncle, Pierre de la Gardiolle, obtained 27th September, 1680, a judgment, confirmed by Louis XIV, declaring them to be of noble birth. They had to furnish proofs that the family had been noble for two hundred years. The original judgment is at Montpellier in the Archives of the Department of Herault, Serie B., Register No. 50, fol. 143. Charles and his uncle were members of the General Assembly of the Reformed Churches of the Cevennes, at Colognac, in 1683, but on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, the former abjured, and having taken part against his former co-religionists in the war of the Camisards, was shot by an assassin, 22nd April, 1704, near his house at Aulas. His uncle Pierre fled soon after the revocation of the Edict, to England, and d. in London s. p. 3rd October, 1705, having m. Susanne DE ROUSSET. Charles at his decease left four sons,

I. Paul, b. 8th October, 1667, Lieutenant in Marton's Regiment, 1696, fought under WILLIAM III in Ireland and the Netherlands, went out to the Mediterranean in Sir Cloudesley Shovel's Fleet in 1703, and took part in an attempt to communicate with the persecuted Cevennois who were in arms. He was Captain in Colonel Dalzell's regiment, 1709, serving with it and being wounded at Tortosa in Spain. He retired as a Major with a pension, and d. unm. 1736.

II. PIERRE, of whom presently.

III. François, b. 1672, a French officer, highly distinguished himself, and was killed at the siege of Turin in August, 1706.

IV. Charles, b. 1676, d. at the siege of Mantua in 1702. He and his brother had fought under Marshal Villray, in the regiment of Brisse.

The second son,

PIERRE DE LA COUR, b. in France, 29th June, 1669, was the first English member of the family, being naturalized by Act of Parliament, 1701. He fought under WILLIAM III, in Ireland and the Netherlands, and was Ensign in Marton's Regiment, and in 1703 he was chosen by the Duke of Schomberg as a Cornet in his proposed regiment of Dragoons, for service in Portugal, which was partially raised and then countermanded by Queen Anne's Government. In 1705, he obtained a Commission now in possession of his descendants, signed by Anne and Ruvigny, Earl of Galloway, the famous Huguenot General, as Captain in Viscount Mountjoy's Regiment of Foot, with which he served in Spain, also another in the same officer's regiment of Dragoons, dated 1715-16. He m. at St. Benet's, Paul's Wharf, 3rd February, 1708, Marquise Françoise REYNARD, of a Huguenot family, and d. (will proved 1746) leaving by her, who d. 1748, with other issue, two sons,

I. PAUL, of whom presently.

II. Peter, b. 30th May, 1725, Major 92nd Regiment, d. unm. 4th June, 1800.

The elder son,

PAUL DE LABILLIÈRE, b. 15th June, 1715; a letter of his father's dated 8th January, 1745, mentions that he had been for a time a colonist at Charleston, Carolina, had been prisoner of war at Barcelona, and had visited his cousin in the old family home in the Cevennes. He m. in London, 5th March, 1753, Martha BRUGUIÈRE, who survived till 1818, and d. leaving with several other children, a son,

PETER DE LABILLIÈRE, b. 25th July, 1766, m. 31st August, 1793, Susanna BOAKE, and d. in Victoria 24th February, 1847, having by her (who d. 28th November, 1837), had with other issue, none of whom married, a son,

CHARLES EDGAR DE LABILLIÈRE, m. at St. Mark's, Dublin, 4th July, 1839, Hannah, daughter of John Hamilton BALLE, whose father, Captain Samuel Balle, R.N., was a junior officer in the "Monmouth," in the famous sea-fight of 1758, when she captured the "Foudroyant." They went to Australia, accompanied by his father in "the Westminster," the second ship that ever sailed direct to Port Phillip from England, and arrived there in December, 1839. He bought the sheep station called "Lovely Banks," but changed its name to "Yallock Vale." It was on the Parwan Creek, about ten miles from Bacchus' Marsh and Ballan, and belonged to Messrs. Hawkey, and had, since the foundation of Port Phillip settlement in 1835, had two owners, Captain Blackney and James Simpson, the first police magistrate appointed to Melbourne. Charles Edgar de Labillière was made a magistrate of New South Wales, when Victoria was only the Port Phillip District of that colony, and was present, when Mr. Latrobe was sworn as its first Governor, also at the dinner given to him on that occasion at the Melbourne Club, of which Mr. C. E. de Labillière was for many years a member. He was, for some time before the appointment of a paid magistrate, Chairman of the Bench at Bacchus Marsh, and was returning officer for the West Bourke, at the first General Election, under responsible Government in 1856. In 1859 he sold the sheep run at Yallock Vale and the land he had purchased there, and returned to England, for a time, travelling about, and finally settled in London, where he d. 2nd November, 1870, leaving by his wife, who d. 23rd October, 1880, an only child, FRANCIS PETER DE LABILLIÈRE, the subject of this memoir.

* Note.—This notice of the English line of the family would be incomplete without further mention of the French branches. The junior ones of de Montcamp and du Viala (see their pedigree in D'Hozier's Armorial Général, Reg., VI) became extinct in the male line many years ago. On the death of Charles de la Cour, Seigneur de Labillière, his two eldest sons, being Huguenot refugees in England, his third son Francis de la Cour de la Gardiolle, became head of the family in France and possessed of the land, held from time immemorial to the present day, by them at Aulas, from which place their residence was, about the time of his death, removed to their present house at Vigan, about a mile distant. Separation, difference of religion, and the fact of fighting on opposite sides, never interfered with the affection of the four brothers. On the peace of Ripwick, the two who were with the English Army and the two in the French Army passed two or three days at Brussels; this, their only meeting, being touchingly recorded in their letters, which still exist. When killed at the siege of Turin in 1706, Francis left a young widow, Françoise d'Aiglepierre, of Saline, and an infant son, Charles Desiré, whose son Charles Philibert, was Lieutenant in the regiment of Dauphiné at the battle of Rosback, about which he wrote some letters, which have been printed for private circulation (Copy, British Museum). He rose to be a Colonel of his regiment, which became known as the 38th; at the Revolution, the family lost the pension which had been conferred on his grandfather for his services. His son, Louis Marie de la Cour de la Gardiolle was the last man of the family in France. His career in the French Navy was closed when he was a young officer, by his being made a prisoner of war on his ship "La Sérieuse" being captured at the Battle of the Nile. He wrote some letters describing the movements of the French Fleet, from its departure from Toulon to its destruction by Nelson, which have been printed for private circulation (Copy, British Museum). He lived at Vigan, and d. leaving by his wife an only daughter Marie Amelie (who d. 7th March, 1888), the only representative of the de la Gardiolle branch, m. Charles Louis Auguste, Baron de Cabiron, who d. 22nd April, 1891. Their only daughter, Marie de Cabiron, is now the only descendant of this branch of the family in France.

Lineage.

The most remote ancestor of this family that can be traced with certainty is JOHN WILLIAMS of Coate, in the parish of Bampton, co. Oxford, and formerly of Aston, in the same parish, who was living 1642. There were, however, persons of the name of WILLIAMS living in the parish of Bampton, in the reign of ELIZABETH, as appears from the records of the Consistory Court, at Oxford. The family tradition is that they came from the county of Brecon, and settled in Oxfordshire, having been driven from Wales by religious persecution. If this is true it would probably refer to some earlier period than Laud's persecution of the Puritans, as it seems certain that the family were settled in Oxfordshire before that time. JOHN WILLIAMS, the South Sea Missionary and explorer who was martyred at Erromanga, and Mr. LEADER, the Royal Academician (who changed his name from WILLIAMS to LEADER), trace a common origin with Mr. Justice Williams.

JOHN WILLIAMS, of Coate, in the parish of Bampton, co. Oxford, purchased leasehold land at Coate by indenture dated 1st May, 1670; was referred to as "Black Williams" in a public book called "the Book of the Sixteens," belonging to the landowners of Aston and Coate in 1668, and was stated to be commonly called "Black John Williams," in a lease dated 28th September, 1670. (Administration of his estate was granted to his widow, Anne Williams, 7th November, 1678, by the Consistory Court at Oxford). He had issue, a son, JOHN WILLIAMS, of Coate and sometime of Aston, both in the parish of Bampton, co. Oxford, who purchased freehold lands in 1654, and was buried at Bampton, 25th October, 1693. Lineage.

The MARRYAT family trace their descent from one of three knights, who came out of Brittany at the period of the Conquest, and settled in England, where their name is frequently to be found mentioned, spelt in many various ways since that time.

THOMAS DE MARRYAT, who, under John Champenon, joined a band of one hundred gentlemen, raised by permission of Queen ELIZABETH, to serve with the Huguenots under Admiral Coligny. He escaped the massacre of St. Bartholomew, 24th August, 1572, by taking refuge in the house of Lord Whitworth, the English Ambassador. THOMAS DE MARRYAT fought in the battle of Ivry, 1590, which destroyed the Catholic League, and on this occasion HENRY IV of France allowed all the officers who fought that day under his banner the right to bear on their arms—a canton charged with a fleur-de-lis. On his return to England, Thomas de Marryat settled in Suffolk. He m. Anne, daughter of Daniel LAKE, by whom he had a son,

JOHN MARRYAT, who m. a daughter of Sir Thomas STYLE and left a son,

OBADIAH MARRYAT, barrister-at-law and Government Commissioner, who was b. in 1651, and d. in 1709, leaving issue,

ZEPHANIAH MARRYAT, D.D., who was b. in 1685, and d. in 1754. His son,

THOMAS MARRYAT, M.D., was b. in 1730, and d. in 1792. He practised in Lothbury, London, and at Bristol, and was the author of a work entitled Therapeutics, or the Art of Healing. He had issue, Samuel, King's Counsel, and

JOSEPH MARRYAT, of Wimbledon House, co. Surrey, M.P. for the borough of Sandwich, chairman of the committee at Lloyd's, chief in the banking-house of Marryat, Kaye, Price and Co., and colonial agent for the Islands of Grenada and Trinidad, who was b. 1757; m. 1789, Charlotte, third daughter of Frederic VON GEYER, of Boston, U.S., a distinguished American loyalist, who suffered severely in the great struggle which ended in the establishment of American independence, and by her (who d. in 1854) left nine children, of whom were,

I. Joseph, M.P. for Sandwich, b. 1789, author of a popular Treatise on Pottery and Porcelaine, m. Mary, daughter of LINDSAY, of Balcarres.

II. Frederick, post captain R.N., C.B., F.R.S., F.L.S., (second son), b. in London, 10th July, 1792; entered the navy 23rd September, 1806, as a volunteer, on board the "Impérieuse"; promoted to the rank of lieutenant, 26th December, 1812; commander, 13th June, 1815; and post captain 25th July, 1825. This distinguished officer was particularly mentioned for his conduct at the defence of Trinidad Castle, attached to the fortress of Rosas, against a whole French army, 1,000 of whose picked men were completely repulsed by eighty of the British, supported by an equal number of Spaniards, on the occasion of an assault made by the former, 30th November, 1808 (vide Gazette, 1809, p. 307). He was present in the memorable attack made upon the French shipping in Aix Roads, 11th April, 1809. On 30th September, 1811, we find him earning the general admiration of the ship's company, and the high approval of his captain, for his courageous conduct, when no other person would attempt it, in leading the way aloft during a tremendous gale from the south-east, which had laid his vessel, the "Æolus," on her beam-ends, and had literally blown away her topmasts and mizen-mast, for the purpose of cutting away the main-yard, as the only means left of saving the mainmast and righting the ship. On the morning after the decease of the Emperor NAPOLEON, at St. Helena, 6th May, 1821, he formed one of the three naval captains admitted to view the body of that monarch. In May, 1824, Captain Marryat joined in the hostilities against Ava, and for a time officiated as senior naval officer in co-operation with the expedition under Major-General Sir Archibald Campbell, K.C.B., and in 1825 he commanded an armament sent in conjunction with a military force under Major Sale up the Bassein River. His conduct from first to last was such that it procured for him the repeated acknowledgments of the Supreme Government and other high authorities in India, and was the means of his being included in a vote of thanks from both Houses of Parliament. No less than five times between 1807 and 1813 did Captain Marryat hazard his existence for the preservation of others from drowning. His gallant exertions elicited the warmest thanks of the Royal Humane Society, with whose medal he was subsequently presented for his invention of a lifeboat, described in that Society's 47th report. In addition to the productions which have rendered him famous as a novelist, Captain Marryat was the author of a work, published in 1822, entitled Suggestions for the Abolition of the Present System of Impressment in the Naval Service. He had previously invented a code of signals for vessels in the merchant service, including a cipher for secret correspondence, now in general use by our own and all foreign navies. On their being translated into French, and supplied by ordonnance to the French marine and merchant service, the king of the French sent him the Croix d'Officier of the Légion d'Honneur. He was nominated a C.B., 26th December, 1826. Captain Marryat obtained a grant of the following coat of arms from H.M. College of Arms, 20th December, 1827, to be borne by him and his descendants: Barry of six or and sa., on a chief wavy az. the representation of a Burmese gilt warboat and over it, in letters of gold, the word Ava, on a canton arg. a fleur-de-lis gu. Crest—On a mount vert, in front of a ram's head arg., the sun rising or. Additional crest—A naval crown or, thereon a flagstaff with a Burmese naval pennon flowing therefrom ppr. and an anchor in saltire sa., united in the centre by a riband az., and pendent therefrom a representation of the gold medal presented by the Royal Humane Society of London to the said Captain Marryat. He m. 21st January, 1819, Catherine, youngest daughter of Sir Stephen SHAIRP, of Russell Place, London, formerly chargé d'affaires at the court of Russia, and by her had, with other issue, a daughter (FLORENCE MARRYAT, a well-known authoress, afterwards Mrs. ROSS-CHURCH, who was b. at Brighton, co. Sussex, 9th July, 1837, and was appointed editor of London Society in June, 1872) and two sons, both in the royal navy. The elder son, Frederick, entered the navy in 1830, and was promoted to the rank of lieutenant, 1st September, 1845. Like his father, Lieutenant Marryat, on two occasions, risked his life by jumping overboard to save others. (O'Byrne's Naval Biography, pp. 726-7.) He was lost in H.M.S. "Avenger" on the Sorelli Rocks.

Lineage.

The Lords de Danzielstoun may be traced from a very early period in our records, and from them directly descends the family of DENNISTOUN, of Dennistoun. SIR HUGH DANZIELSTOUN, of that ilk, accorded a reluctant submission to EDWARD I, 1296. He had issue, JOHN (Sir) his successor, and Joanna, or Janet, m. Sir Adam MURE, of Rowallan, and was mother of Elizabeth Mure, m. King ROBERT II, and was ancestress of the long line of Stuart Kings. Sir Hugh was s. by his son, SIR JOHN DE DANZIELSTOUN, of that ilk, for many years sheriff of co. Dumbarton, and governor of Dumbarton Castle, one of the Lords of Parliament who concurred in the settlement of the Crown upon the descendants of his niece, Elizabeth Mure. He m. Mary, daughter of Malcolm, first Earl of Wigton, and had (with one daughter Janet, wife of Sir Adam MURE, of Rowallan) five sons, Robert, his heir; Walter, a bold and turbulent churchman, made Bishop of St. Andrews by ROBERT III; William (Sir), of Colgrain; Hugh, and Malcolm. The eldest son and heir, SIR ROBERT DE DANZIELSTOUN, of that ilk, was keeper of the Castle of Dumbarton. His daughters, and co-heirs were, Margaret, m. Sir William CUNNINGHAME, of Kilmaurs, and Elizabeth, m. Sir Robert

MAXWELL, of Calderwood. Sir Robert de Danzielstoun's brother, SIR WILLIAM DE DANZIELSTOUN, of Colgrain and Camis Esken, co. Dumbarton, acquired those estates before 1377. His direct descendant, left no issue, had Elizabeth, the wife of John COLQUHOUN, of Camstraddan; Catherine, m. John MACGREGOR, of Ardenconnal; and his successor,

I beg leave upon this occasion to notify to your excellency, in the strongest terms, the satisfaction which I have felt in the correct and careful performance of his duties, which has characterised Mr. Archer, during two years and a half that he has had the charge successively of the Commissariat Department in the two settlements under my authority, the last twenty months of which at Hobart Town." Captain Sturt served with his regiment during the occupation of Paris after the battle of Waterloo. He went with it to Sydney, where he was on the staff of H.E. Sir Ralph Darling, the Governor of New South Wales. Nothing was then known of the interior, by many supposed to be an inland sea, and Captain Sturt volunteered to lead an expedition, 20th November, 1828, to the North-West. Passing through the marshes of the Macquarrie, he discovered the Darling River, journeying 1,272 miles. In 1830, he led a second expedition down the Murrumbidgee, discovered its junction with a large river, which he named the Murray, and traced for 850 miles to its sea mouth in a small whale boat, taking only Mr. George Macleay (afterwards Sir George Macleay, K.C.M.G.) and six men. This daring and arduous expedition led to the colonization of South Australia, and was estimated by Mr. John Arrowsmith, the eminent hydrographer, to have given 2,000 miles of water communication to Australia. In 1844-6, Captain Sturt's offer to explore the central parts of the continent being accepted by the Home Government in Lord Derby's Administration, he penetrated to within 150 miles of the centre and discovered Cooper's Creek, but owing to seasons of extraordinary heat and drought, he was forced to retreat after enduring great sufferings and losing his second in command. Mr. J. Arrowsmith puts the mileage of this expedition from "careful measurements" at 3,450 miles, and his previous ones at 3,000 miles. Captain Sturt published accounts of his travels, with other useful information. He was accompanied on this last expedition by Mr. James Poole, his second in command (who died), by Mr. McDougall Stuart, draftsman, who afterwards explored and crossed the continent, and by Mr. John Harris Browne, surgeon, and a distinguished colonist and landowner. In 1838, Captain Sturt took up his residence in the province of South Australia, of which he became surveyor-general in April, 1839, with a seat in the executive and legislative councils. He was commissioner of lands, South Australia, 1839-43; registrar-general, 1843-8; and colonial secretary, 1848-51, when he retired on a pension granted by the colony of South Australia. He subsequently returned to England, and d. at Cheltenham 16th June, 1869, having shortly prior to that date been nominated a K.C.M.G., but did not live to receive the honour of knighthood.

Charles Gavan Duffy was educated at the Rev. John Bleekly's school in Monaghan, and made his mark early in life as a journalist, whilst still a law student at King's Inn, Dublin. In 1836 he was sub-editor of the Morning Register, published in that city, and contributed articles for the London newspapers. In 1839, he became editor and proprietor of the Belfast Vindicator, and in 1842 established, with the co-operation of Thomas Davis and John B. Dillon, the Nation, a journal that was soon to become by the brilliant talents of its founders, an organ of vast influence and power not only in Ireland, but also in Europe and America. In 1844, O'Connell and the other leaders of the Repeal party, including Mr. Gavan Duffy, were tried, convicted, and imprisoned for a conspiracy to overthrow the British authority in Ireland. The House of Lords however reversed the decision, and the prisoners returned to their homes amid a scene of extraordinary enthusiasm. In 1845 Mr. Gavan Duffy was called to the bar, but did not practise. In 1846, owing to the differences with O'Connell, Mr. Gavan Duffy and his friends, now called the "Young Ireland" party, established the Irish Confederation, seceding from the Repeal Association. After the famine of 1847, he was imprisoned with many others of the young leaders and tried for treason felony, but though four times arraigned, no jury could be found to convict. On his release from prison he revived, in 1852, the Nation, and founded the

Tenant League, which succeeded in returning in that year fifty members to Parliament, in consequence of the political union of the Presbyterians of the North, and the Catholics of the South. Mr. Duffy was elected for New Ross in 1852; and in concert with Frederick Lucas, and George Henry Moore, founded the first independent Irish Party in the House of Commons. He resigned in 1855, owing to the numerous secessions in his party. In November of that year, he sailed for Australia, where he was received with unbounded enthusiasm. The colonies of New South Wales and Victoria, where he settled, joined in purchasing for him a freehold for £5,000, which qualified him for a seat in either house of the Legislature. He was elected to the first Victorian Parliament for the counties of Villiers and Heytesbury. In the first session he was chairman of a select committee on the federal union of the colonies and subsequently passed, in opposition to the Government, the first Act of Parliament of Victoria, which abolished the property qualification. In March, 1857, he became minister of public works, and the chairman of the central road board in the first responsible government, and in 1858, minister of public lands, but resigned next year. In 1861, he resumed office as president of the board of lands and works, and the next year passed the well-known Land Act, which was however violated by many of those whom it was framed to benefit. Mr. Duffy revisited Europe for a year or so in 1865, and on his return to Australia in 1867, was immediately elected for Dalhousie, and took a leading part in the Darling Grant controversy. He was a chairman of a Royal Commission on the payment of members, and of one concerning the federation of the Australian colonies. In 1871 Mr. Duffy became Premier, having declined to form an administration in 1869. His government threw open the colony for selection by abolishing the reserves, made in favour of pastoral tenants, and the tariff was made more protective. He gained an important victory in a controversy on the border duties with the government of New South Wales. In 1872 Mr. Duffy was chairman of a conference of Cabinet Ministers from all the Australian colonies, to press on the Imperial Government the repeal of the law affecting inter-colonial legislation on fiscal subjects, which was eventually successful in its object. Mr. Duffy resigned the premiership in June, 1872, in consequence of an adverse vote. He was offered the companionship of St. Michael and St. George, but declined that honour, and was created a knight by patent in 1873. Sir Charles went home to Ireland in the following year, and was invited to re-enter the House of Commons, but not approving of the existing policy of the Irish party, he did not stand for election. He returned to Australia in 1875, and was elected by the important constituency of North Gippsland, and on the meeting of Parliament was unanimously chosen Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, and continued in that office till February, 1880. He was created a K.C.M.G. in 1877, and returned to Europe in 1880. He published Young Ireland in that year, and its sequel Four Years of Irish History in 1883, and the League of North and South in 1886, and subsequently Thomas Davis, the Memoirs of an Irish Patriot, and Conversations with Carlyle. He has since habitually contributed to the leading London reviews on colonial and Irish questions. He is in receipt of a pension of £1,000 a year from the colony of Victoria. Sir Charles was chairman of the Trustees of the National Gallery of Victoria, where his bust has been placed by public subscription, and is a well-known patron of literature and art. Sir Charles has resided in the south of France since his return to Europe in 1880. He is the son of the late JOHN DUFFY, of Monaghan, and Ann, his wife, daughter of Patrick GAVAN, of Latnamard.

Residence—Villa Guillory, Nice, Alpes Maritimes, France.

Lineage.

The family of MACARTNEY is said by PLAYFAIR to have sprung from the youngest son of MCCARTHY MORE, of the co. Cork (see MCCARTHY, of Carrignavar, in BURKE's Landed Gentry), but when or why his descendants moved to the co. Down (where we find them in the early part of the 14th century) is not known. Edward Bruce, brother of the famous Robert, King of Scotland, was invited by some of the Irish chieftains to come over to help them to cast off the English yoke and to be himself their king. The expedition failed, Edward was killed in a duel, and the chieftains who had taken part with him were naturally objects of displeasure to England and some of them escaped to Scotland, among whom was MACARTNEY of Mourne, in Downshire. Robert Bruce rewarded this supporter of his brother with lands in Argyleshire. The Macartneys subsequently moved to Galloway to lands still called by their name. There the family divided into three branches, MACARTNEY of Leathes; of Blacket (from whom the present baronet); and of Auchinleck. The Leathes branch ended in James Macartney, who had four daughters, one of whom was Frances, the celebrated authoress of the Ode to Indifference, who m. Fulke, son of the Hon. Algernon GREVILLE, and was by this marriage, ancestress of the present Lord GREVILLE, who is now the representative of the eldest branch of the MACARTNEY family (see BURKE's Peerage, sub BARON GREVILLE, and the EARL OF WARWICK). The Auchinleck or youngest branch, ended in GEORGE MACARTNEY, of Lissanoure Castle, co. Antrim, grandson of GEORGE MACARTNEY, of Auchinleck, who settled in Ireland 1649. This George, of Lissanoure, was b. 1737, and sent 1754, as envoy extraordinary to the Empress of Russia and knighted on his return. He was M.P. for Armagh and Chief Secretary (1769) to Lord Townshend, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; in 1773, was installed a Knight of the Bath, was Governor of the Caribbee Islands, in 1775; and on 19th July, 1776, was raised to the Irish Peerage as LORD MACARTNEY, Baron of Lissanoure, co. Antrim. He was Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the Emperor of China in 1792, and was advanced 19th July, of that year, to be VISCOUNT MACARTNEY, of Dervoch, co. Antrim, and was on his return to England in 1794, created EARL MACARTNEY. He was created on 8th June, 1796, Baron Macartney, of Parkhurst in Surrey and of Auchinleck, in the stewardry of Kirkcudbright, in the Peerage of England, for important services in Italy in the previous year. His last office was the Governorship of the Cape of Good Hope, to which colony he sailed in January, 1797, and from which he came back in 1799. He m. 1st February, 1768, Lady Jane STUART, second daughter of John, Earl of Bute, but d. without issue 31st March, 1806, when all his honours became extinct.

The Blackett branch of the Macartneys, referred to above, removed from Scotland to Ireland in 1630.

GEORGE MACARTNEY (son of GEORGE MACARTNEY, the last of the Macartneys of Blacket, who resided in Scotland), settled at Belfast about the year 1630. He m. Martha DAVIES, of the family of Sir John Davies, Knt., attorney-general for Ireland temp. JAMES I, and had two sons, George, who served under the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugène, had the misfortune to act as second to Lord Mohun when the latter fought the celebrated duel with the Duke of Hamilton in which both the Duke and Lord Mohun lost their lives. At the time of his death he was a lieutenant-general in the army, Commander-in-Chief of the Forces in Ireland, Governor of Portsmouth, and Colonel of the Carabiniers. His line is now extinct.

In September, 1847, he left Ireland and sailed with the first Bishop of Melbourne (Dr. Perry) in the "Stag" for Port Phillip, in Australia, where he landed 25th January, 1848, and soon afterwards took charge of Heidelberg, where he remained till 1st October, when he was appointed Archdeacon of Geelong. In 1852 he was given the Deanery of Melbourne and the Incumbency of St. James' parish, in that town, and soon afterwards accepted the Archdeaconry of Melbourne, which involved the oversight of all those parts of the diocese which had not a settled minister. In 1860, finding the duties of a parish minister incompatible with the Archdeaconry, he resigned St. James. In 1883 the parish of St. James was again united to the deanery, but under different arrangements. Soon after the arrival of Dr. Goe, the present Bishop of Melbourne in 1877, the Dean resigned the Archdeaconry, the duties of which he was no longer able to fulfil. He was four times Vicar-General, during the absence of the Bishops of Melbourne, viz.:—1855-6, 1863-4, 1874-7, 1886-7. Boyd.

THE LATE HON. JOHN BOYD, of the city of St. John, New Brunswick, Canada, Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, b. 28th September, 1828, m. 4th September, 1852, Annie E., daughter of Cereno P. JONES, of Weymouth, Nova Scotia, and d. s. p. 4th December, 1893.

Mr. Boyd's father lived at Magherafelt, co. Derry, Ireland, and his grandfather was an elder in the Covenanting Church of Scotland. His family came from Argyleshire, in the 17th century, with a colony of brave Presbyterians who had resided unto blood during the stormy period of the death of the Marquess of Argyll, and were the men who founded the prosperity of the province of Ulster, in Ireland, which it still enjoys. Mr. Boyd emigrated to New Brunswick, and early entered into political life there, and took part with his friends, Sir Leonard Tilley and the late Governor Wilmot, in the discussions, which ended in responsible government, the union of the colony, and the national policy in trade matters, the latter caused mainly by the abrogation by the United States of the Reciprocity Treaty between the States and Canada in 1866. Mr. Boyd was a delegate to the Detroit Convention in June, 1865, of the boards of trade in the United States and Canada, and one of those chosen, with the Hon. Joseph Howe, of Nova Scotia, and the Hon. James Skead, of Ontario, to speak for Canada. In the Senate he made the closing speech for the Canadian Pacific Railway, in 1881. In 1858, he wrote a pamphlet in favour of railway extension between St. John and Maine, and was an earnest advocate, in the press and on the platform, of the union of the provinces in 1867. For sixteen years he was chairman of the school board in St. John, and to his endeavours Catholics and Protestants alike are indebted for the harmonious settlement of their difficulties, and for this the Catholic bishop publicly thanked him. He took a keen interest in emigration, and visited Ireland and Scotland for the purpose of pointing out the capabilities of his province for farming. He has interested himself much in the settlement of the children sent from the industrial schools of Glasgow. He has been closely connected with all the charitable, literary, commercial, and national movements of his province, and after the great fire of 1877, in which he lost heavily, he was foremost in stirring up the hearts of the citizens to take courage and to rebuild the progressive and beautiful city of St. John. Mr. Boyd was appointed a senator of the Dominion of Canada, 10th February, 1880, which position he continued to occupy till 22nd September, 1893, when he was appointed to the office of Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, as successor to the Hon. Sir Samuel Leonard Tilley: this position he was only privileged to occupy for about two months and a half, having d. very suddenly 4th December, 1893. On the 7th December the government of New Brunswick accorded to the remains of Mr. Boyd a public funeral, which was the largest and most representative one ever given to a public man in the maritime provinces. It was reckoned that 30,000 people witnessed it. Mr. Boyd, whose mother d. at St. John, in May, 1877, had one brother, James Smyth Boyd, who d. in Australia.

Residence—27, Queen Square, St. John, New Brunswick.

Lineage.

This is said to be a branch of the MURES of Caldwell, who are immediately descended from Sir Reginald More, or Mure, of Abercorn and Cowdams, who appears to have been Chamberlain of Scotland as early as 1329, the first year of the reign of DAVID II. The name occurs, written at various periods, More, Mure, Muir, Moor, &c. The arms of "Muir of Caldwell," and "Muir of Rowallan," being then the two chief houses of the name in Scotland, are exhibited on page 46 of the Scottish Heraldry, emblazoned by Sir David Lindsay, Lord Lyon, about the year 1540. Those of Caldwell present the plain shield of the Mores, "three mullets on a bend"; while on the shield of Rowallan are quartered the Wheatsheaves of the Comyns.

The most ancient of the name on record are the MORES of Polkelly, near Kilmarnock in co. Ayr; one of whom, David de More, appears as witness to a charter of Alexander II. The direct male line of Polkelly becoming extinct, the estate passed, by marriage of the heir female, to the Mores of Rowallan, cadets of the family who had acquired the neighbouring estate of Rowallan from the Comyns, its ancient Lords.

GILCHRIST MORE, younger son of Sir Reginald More, of Abercorn (one of the commissioners appointed in 1340 to treat with the Lords Percy, Mowbray, and Neville on a truce between the two nations), became the male representative of the House of Abercorn at the death of his elder brother, William. To him descended the property of Cowdams. The estate of Caldwell, in the shires of Ayr and Renfrew, he is supposed to have acquired by marriage with the heir of Caldwell, of that ilk, then a family of some note, having given a chancellor to Scotland, 1349. From Gilchrist, lineally descended,

JOHN MURE, of Caldwell (eldest son of JOHN MURE, of Caldwell, by his wife the Lady Janet STEWART, daughter of Matthew, Earl of Lennox), who inherited Caldwell, 1539. He m. firstly, the Lady Isabel MONTGOMERIE, daughter of Hugh, first Earl of Eglinton, and secondly, Christian, daughter of Ninian, Lord Ross, of Hawkhead, and had (with younger children) two sons,

- i. John (Sir) of Caldwell, m. Janet KENNEDY, of Bargeny, and was slain

10th September, 1750, by the Cunninghames, of Aikett, and Raeburne, of that ilk. He had three sons, William, James, and

Robert (Sir), of Caldwell, heir to his father; m. firstly, Elizabeth, daughter of KINCAID, of that ilk; and secondly, Barbara, daughter of Sir George PRESTON, of Valleyfield, and relict of Robert, Lord Sempill, by whom he left a daughter, m. Sir William HAMILTON, Bart., of Preston. About 1610, the lands of Thornton, near Kilmarnock, long in possession of the family, were alienated to a cadet, founder of the House of MURE of Thornton, the male line of which becoming extinct 1701, in the person of Sir Archibald Mure, Lord Provost of Edinburgh, the estate passed by his heir female to John Cunninghame, of Caddel. By his first wife, Sir Robert had two sons, John, who d. s. p., and James, who m. Margaret, daughter of Sir William MURE, of Rowallan, and left at his death, v. p., four sons and as many daughters; the elder son, Robert, successor to his grandfather, m. Jean, daughter of Uchtred KNOX, of Ramphorlie, and, it seems, fell in battle about 1640, having had with a daughter (Euphemia, m. her kinsman, William MURE, of Glanders-town), three sons, successively, of Caldwell, the youngest of whom, WILLIAM, of Caldwell, m. 1655, Barbara, daughter of Sir William CUNNINGHAME, of Cunninghamehead. This laird was attainted for joining the Covenanters, fled to Holland, and d. in exile. His estates on forfeiture were granted to the celebrated General Dalzell. His lady was imprisoned with two of her daughters, in Blackness Castle, and underwent much cruel persecution. Of Caldwell's three daughters, Jane, the elder, m. Colonel John ERSKINE, of Carnock, but left no issue; Anne, the youngest, d. during the persecution of the family; while Barbara, the second daughter, lived to obtain by special Act of Parliament, 19th July, 1690, a full restitution of her patrimonial estates. She m. John FAIRLIE, of that ilk, but dying without issue, was s. by her kinsman, WILLIAM, fourth Laird of Glanderstown.

II. WILLIAM, of Glanderstown.

John Mure d. about 1544. His second son, WILLIAM MURE, of Glanderstown, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Gavin HAMILTON, of Raploch, and had with a daughter (Janet, wife of John POLLOCK, of that ilk), a son and heir.

WILLIAM MURE, of Glanderstown, who m. his kinswoman, Euphemia MURE, of Caldwell, before-mentioned, and had issue, Amherst.

HON. JOSCELINE GEORGE HERBERT AMHERST, of Holmesdale, Darlington, Western Australia, J.P., and late member of the Legislative Council of that colony, barrister-at-law, of the Inner Temple, b. 7th June, 1846; private Secretary to the Governor of Fiji, June, 1881, to September, 1883; and to Sir F. Napier Groome, Governor of Western Australia, from March, 1885, to January, 1889.

Lineage.

The name of AMHERST, or, as it was variously spelt in ancient documents, AMHUERT, HAMHERST, HEMMERST, or EMHERST, is taken from a place called Amherst or Hamerst, which lieth in Pembury parish, near Tunbridge, in the county of Kent.

The first of the name that appears on record is GILBERT DE HEMMERST, who is placed on the Pipe Roll of the 15th HENRY III, A.D. 1230.

The next is ROGER DE HEMERHURST, who is mentioned in a deed of which a copy is preserved in the College of Arms, London, and placed upon the pedigree of the family of Amherst, attested by Camden.

His descendant, Walter, who is mentioned in the above deed, appears upon the Subsidy Roll, 1st EDWARD III, 1327, as Walterus de Emherst; also on the roll of 12th EDWARD III, 1338, again in the 14th EDWARD III, as Walterus de Hamherst, in 15th EDWARD III, as Walter de Hamherst; again in the 21st EDWARD III, 1347, as Walterus de Emherst, and in the second moiety of the roll as Walterus de Hemherst; in the next year, 22nd EDWARD III, 1348, the name of Johanna Hammherst, most probably his widow, appears, as his name does not occur upon that or any subsequent roll.

In the 25th EDWARD III, 1351, appears the name of Johannes de Amherst; in the roll also appears Galfridus Judd and Robertus Bouregge. With these families it appears the Amhersts afterwards intermarried; and the lands called Juddy's lands are handed down by many of the early wills, and descended to the East Farleigh branch.

In the next year, 1352, appear John Amherst and William Amherst in connection with the heirs of Galfridus Judd and Robert Bouregge.

In the 46th EDWARD III, 1372, appears Isabell Amherst, most probably widow of John and mother of William Amherst. The names of the payers of the subsidies are not entered upon the subsequent rolls, the amount for each district only being given. The pedigree alluded to as attested by Camden, begins with JOHN AMHERST, of Amherst, in the parish of Pembury, near Tunbridge, Kent (most probably the son of William and grandson of John), who was living in the 22nd RICHARD II, 1399, and left a son and heir, THOMAS, whose son and heir, THOMAS, appears upon record in 1433 as one of the chief persons in the district; he d. 1460, possessed, as appears by his will, dated 1469, of much land in Pembury, Capell, and Hadlo, and of Juddy's lands in Judeley

Shortly after his arrival he was elected physician to the Melbourne Benevolent Asylum, appointed a justice of the peace for Victoria in 1853, elected physician to the Melbourne Hospital in 1854, an office which he held for twelve years, and upon resigning was appointed a life governor and consulting physician. In June, 1855, he was appointed a councillor of the University of Melbourne, an office which he still holds, having been for many years senior member of the council; was admitted M.D., Melbourne University, 1856, being the first upon whom that University conferred that degree; was elected vice-chancellor of the University of Melbourne in 1858, holding that office for twenty-nine consecutive years, and on the 4th April, 1887, he was elected chancellor of the University, which office he has since continued to fill. To Sir Anthony Brownless is especially due the honour of founding the Medical School in the University of Melbourne, and framing for it, regulations, which were at that time pronounced by the General Council of Medical Education of Great Britain to be as complete as at any school of medicine in the world. He has been a member of the senate of the University since its constitution in 1867, and is the senior member of that body. He is senior consulting physician to the Melbourne Hospital, and honorary consulting physician to St. Vincent's Hospital, honorary vice-president of the Australian Federation League of Victoria, medical referee to the Victoria Life and General Insurance Company, and late government official visitor of industrial and reformatory schools, and was formerly inspector of the same, physician to the Melbourne Benevolent Asylum, to the Orphanage of St. Vincent de Paul, to the Magdalen Asylum, the Industrial and Reformatory Schools at Abbotsford, and many other public institutions. He was for thirty years a member of the Catholic Committee on Primary Schools, and has taken as deep an interest in primary as he has in university education. He has been a member of several important government commissions. In 1862, he sat on a commission to inquire and report on the Yarra Bend Lunatic Asylum and the treatment of lunatics, which led to important reforms in the management of asylums, great amelioration in the treatment of lunatics, and the erection in Victoria of suitable hospitals for the insane. In 1879, he sat on a commission for inquiring into the condition and management of industrial and reformatory schools; this commission succeeded in initiating an entirely new system for the treatment of juvenile criminals, which has proved eminently successful. He was also a commissioner for the Melbourne Centennial International Exhibition of 1888. Sir Anthony has always been a warm supporter of British manly sports, and for many years kept at his own expense one of the best and most beautiful packs of harriers in Victoria. In 1870, His Holiness Pope Pius IX conferred on him the honour of knighthood of the Order of St. Gregory the Great, and in 1883 Pope Leo XIII created him a knight commander of the Order of Pius. In 1884 he was elected a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of England; in 1888 the University of St. Andrew's conferred on him the honorary degree of LL.D., and in the same year he also received the degree of LL.D. from the University of Melbourne; he was created C.M.G. in 1888, and K.C.M.G. in 1893.

II. Mary Louisa.

III. Bertha Florence, m. at Richmond, Tasmania, 7th January, 1892, William MOSEY, formerly of Walthamstow, co. Essex, and has issue, a daughter, Celia Camilla.

IV. Clara Camilla.

Lineage.

The family of OGILVY derives its origin from the Mormaers of Angus, one of the seven great hereditary chiefs of Scotland, who in the 11th century exchanged that designation for the title of earl.

GILBRIDE, EARL OF ANGUS in the time of DAVID I had with other issue, three sons, ANGUS, his successor in that earldom; Magnus, who through his mother s. to the earldom of Caithness; and GILBERT. The third son,

GILBERT, assumed the surname of OGILVY from lands so called in his possession, of which, with Powrie and Kyneithein in Angus, he had a charter in 1172. From him descended,

SIR PATRICK OGILVY, of Wester Powrie, who had from ROBERT I a charter of Kettings in Forfarshire. He had two sons, I. ALEXANDER, his heir, a quo the family of

OGILVY, of Ogilvy, extinct; II. PATRICK. The younger son,

PATRICK OGILVY, of Wester Powrie, obtained from his nephew, Sir Patrick Ogilvy, of Ogilvy, to him and Marjory his wife, the lands of Wester Powrie. By marriage with this Marjory, daughter and eventually heiress of Robert RAMSAY, of Auchterhouse, he had a son,

WALTER OGILVY, of Wester Powrie and Auchterhouse, hereditary sheriff of Forfar, to which estate and office he succeeded on the death of his uncle, Sir Malcolm Ramsay, circa 1365. He had two sons, Alexander, who d. unm., and WALTER. The younger,

SIR WALTER OGILVY, of Auchterhouse, sheriff of Forfar, was a man of great worth and merit, and lost his life in the following manner:—Duncan Stewart, natural son of Alexander, Earl of Buchan, NELLES, of Grimsby, son of Hon. Abraham NELLES, and had issue, two sons and three daughters; II. Emma, d. unm.; III. Isabella, d. unm.; IV. Catherine, d. unm.; V. Margaret Leah, m. James McDONELL (see that family); VI. HARRIET LOUISA, m. (as in the text) 1812, WILLIAM HENRY LEE; VII. Augusta, d. unm.; and VIII. Mary Eleanor, m. July, 1847, Frederick Augustus BALL, and d. 7th June, 1890, having by him, who d. 7th February, 1885, had issue, three sons and two daughters.

having entered the shire of Angus, at the head of a lawless gang of robbers, in order to plunder the country, the sheriff, accompanied by his uterine brother, Walter Lighton, ancestor of that family, and a numerous posse of country people overtook the robbers at a place called Glenbrerith, in Angus, where, after a smart skirmish, Sir Walter with his brother, and about sixty of his followers, were killed on the spot, 1391. With a daughter Marjory, m. to David, third earl of Crawford, he left three sons,

I. Alexander, of Auchterhouse, sheriff of Forfar, 1403-23, who had issue,

1. Sir Patrick, of Auchterhouse, sheriff of Forfar and justiciary, father of Alexander, of Auchterhouse, whose daughter and heir Margaret, m. James Stuart, Earl of Buchan, brother uterine of JAMES II.

The eldest son,

ALEXANDER OGILVY, second baron of Inverquhar, who lost his life at the memorable battle of Arbroath, in which he fought against the Lindsays, 23rd January, 1445, got a charter from Alexander Seton, Lord of Gordon, of the lands of Newton, Herdhill, Kinnordie, Balbriedie, &c., in the barony of Kirriemuir, dated the 15th June, 1434; also a charter from Nichol Borthwick, of the lands of Ladinch, &c., dated the 15th March, 1438; and a charter from William Gifford, of Bannagarroch, of the lands of Little Migry, &c., dated the 1st April, 1439; all of which are confirmed by a charter under the great seal. He had in 1444 a licence to fortify his house and add an iron gate. By his wife, Janet, daughter and heiress of William TOWERS, of Bampton, he had a son,

ALEXANDER OGILVY, third baron of Inverquhar, who d. young, circa 1454, and was s. by his uncle,

Margaret, daughter of John RATTEAY, of Ratray, he had a son and successor,

DAVID OGILVY, sixth baron of Inverquhar. There appear to have been disputes and family feuds "betwixt the twa houses of Innercarritie and Clova sen the battle of Arbroath"; but these were all at last accommodated by the interposition of friends, who were mutually chosen as arbitrators by both parties, and who having adjusted all their differences, the brothers entered into a mutual bond of friendship, whereby they bound themselves and their posterity to live in peace and amity with one another, dated 24th May, 1524. In 1855 he finally left the sea for commercial pursuits, and entered political life in 1880, when he was elected to represent the Hastings and Manning District in Parliament. Since then the same constituency has elected him five times, and he now sits as member for "The Manning," a new electoral district, formed from a division of the Hastings and Manning. Mr. Young was minister for Public Instruction in 1885, speaker of the Assembly from March, 1887, to October, 1891, minister for Public Works in 1891 and again in 1894, and still holds that position. He was authorised by the Queen to retain for life the title of "Honourable" in the same year.

Dr. H. N. P. Wollaston entered the Civil Service of the colony, after passing the examination, on 1st July, 1863, promoted to the fourth class 1st January, 1867; to the third in 1882; to the second in 1888; to the first in 1890; and in 1891, to the 1st division of the Public Service as the Permanent Head of the Department of Trade and Customs. He is a justice of the peace, a barrister-at-law (1885), LL.B. (with honours) Melbourne University (1884), LL.M. (1886) LL.D. (1890). Dr. Wollaston is standing counsel to the Marine Board of Victoria.

Lineage.

An interesting account of this ancient family was written in October, 1753, by WILLIAM WOLLASTON, of Finborough. The document, still in the possession of the family, states:—"It appears by a very great number of deeds that the family of Wollaston were numerous before, and in the reign of EDWARD III, at Wollaston, in Staffordshire. They were then lords of the manor, and were called Henry, William, Thomas de Wollaston. In all these deeds or most of them, the name is spelt as we now spell our name. In 1327, the family were settled at Wollaston in Staffordshire. In 1377, they sold the Manor of Wollaston* to the Aston family, and then dispersed about the country; some went to Trescott, some to Perton, in the parish of Tettenhall, in Staffordshire, of which last we are descended. A gift of loaves of bread every Sunday to the poor of that parish, is still given by William Wollaston, of Shenton. Now I suppose they were no longer called 'de Wollaston,' but 'Wollaston,' without the 'de.' They were gentlemen always living upon their estates, seemingly with the same disposition and character as at present, without ambition, so as to make much noise in the world, or to much enlarge their fortunes, until the beginning of Queen ELIZABETH's reign, 1553, when Henry Wollaston, one of the younger brothers of the family, the great grandfather of William Wollaston, at Perton, was sent to London, and there, by the woollen trade, and living to the age of 93, he became very rich. His money he laid out in the purchase of the very estates which are now in the family, first in Staffordshire, the county in which he was born, and in which his ancestors had always lived, by purchasing Oncott Hall, where he resided; then in the beginning of JAMES I's time, 1603, he re-purchased the manor and estate of Wollaston, of Sir Edward Aston, in whose family it had been ever since the sale in RICHARD II (1377), which estate with the others in Staffordshire, Leicestershire,† and Derbyshire, purchased likewise about the same time, and those in Suffolk, purchased since, are now in William Wollaston, of St. James' Square, the heir male of the first purchaser, and I believe of the family in general. Sir John Wollaston, well known in the Civil Wars, being then Lord Mayor of London, was the said Henry's younger brother's son."

THOMAS WOLLASTON, of Perton in Staffordshire, a person of rank and influence, in the reign of HENRY VII, had a grant from the crown of the office of Keeper of the Outwoods of Lyudridge, which he held until 1523.

* The Manor of Wollaston, when sold to Lord Aston, 1377, was valued at £51 2s. 8d.

† In 1625, William Wollaston, of Oncott, bought Shenton of Sir Richard Molyneux. The house was built in 1629.

Grey.

THE RIGHT HON. SIR GEORGE GREY, P.C., K.C.B., D.C.L., LL.D., M.L.R. of Auckland, New Zealand, b. at Lisbon, 14th April, 1812; m. at King George's Sound, Western Australia, 2nd November, 1839, Eliza Lucy (b. 1822), daughter of Admiral Sir Robert SPENCER, R.N., K.C.H., sometime government resident at Albany, Western Australia. Sir George Grey was born at Lisbon during the Peninsular war, in which his father played a distinguished part, and was educated at the Royal Military College. He was gazetted Ensign in the 83rd Regiment in 1829, from which he retired as captain in 1839. He is the eldest surviving officer of that regiment. He was employed with Lieutenant Lushington in 1837 to explore the country to the north-west of Australia, and landed at Port George 2nd December, 1837, and underwent many perilous adventures in this expedition, which he described in that most interesting work, The Journals of Discovery, published in 1841. He was sometime resident magistrate at Albany, Western Australia, and in December, 1840, he was appointed Governor of South Australia in succession to Lieutenant-Colonel George Gawler, K.H., at a time of severe financial crisis. During his residence at Adelaide the Burra and Kapunda mines were discovered, and the colony became self-supporting. Owing to his success in that colony, Captain Grey was appointed 18th November, 1845, Governor of New Zealand, at a most difficult period, when the war was raging. This he succeeded in quelling. He issued "the ordinance to provide for the establishment of Provincial Legislative Councils" on 29th November, 1848, to which the royal assent was given 22nd December, 1849, and which led to much dissatisfaction and agitation among certain sections in the colony. In May, 1852, six provinces, viz., Auckland, Wellington, Nelson, Canterbury, Otago, and New Plymouth, were created by Act of Parliament, and Sir George proclaimed the new constitution 17th January, 1853, and defined the boundaries of the provinces. In January, 1854, he was appointed Governor of Cape Colony, where he prevented a rising of the Kaffirs by his diplomatic skill. On the breaking out of the mutiny in India, Lord Elphinstone, Governor of Bombay, asked for assistance, and Sir George Grey promptly and on his own responsibility sent troops from the Cape with cavalry and artillery fully horsed, and £60,000 in specie, which enabled Lord Elphinstone to hold the mutineers in check in Bombay, and Sir Colin Campbell to go to the relief of Lucknow on 17th November, 1857. Sir George was once more specially chosen, on account of his intimate knowledge of the people and the country, for the Governorship of New Zealand, to which he was reappointed in May, 1861, in order to cope with the native troubles that had arisen in the colony. The Maori war had then commenced, and was eventually quelled, and Sir George left the colony in a state of tranquillity and returning prosperity. There had been considerable friction however, between the governor and the general officer commanding the troops, and Sir George was recalled 27th August, 1867, to the unanimous disapproval of the colonists, and amid widespread expressions of respect for the governor and regret at his recall. The incident ended in a spirited letter of remonstrance by Sir George Grey to the Home Authorities, in vindication of his administration. In 1872, he was retired on a pension. Sir George returned to New Zealand and settled in Kawau, and in 1875 was elected a member of the House of Representatives for Auckland City West, and was appointed superintendent of the province of Auckland. On 13th October, 1877, he became premier of the colony, of which he had been governor ten years before. Sir George resigned office in October, 1879, but remains a member of the Legislature. He had been created K.C.B. in 1848, and was made Hon. D.C.L. by the University of Oxford in 1854. He was one of the delegates of New Zealand to the Federation Convention in Sydney in 1891. This distinguished statesman is author of Journals of Two Expeditions of Discovery in North West and Western Australia during 1837-8-9, already mentioned, and Polynesian Mythology, and other works.

He arrived in the ship "Templar," at Sydney, 10th March, 1843, where his first appearance at the Victoria Theatre took place, and after a successful engagement in Hobart Town, went to Launceston 3rd March, 1845, and became actor-manager at the Queen's Theatre, Melbourne, 21st June of that year. He commenced his management at Adelaide, South Australia, where he had built a theatre, 2nd November, 1846. The large fortune he had accumulated was lost in speculation in copper mining. After appearing in Geelong in 1852, he left for England in 1854, and acted with great success at the Royal Haymarket Theatre, London, and after a tour in Birmingham, Manchester, Edinburgh, and Dublin, he returned to Melbourne with his company, and acted at the Queen's Theatre there. He purchased the Old Theatre Royal, and the freehold of Cremorne Gardens, which he opened 3rd November, 1856, in which year he commenced the first grand opera season ever given in the colonies, in the Theatre Royal. He built the Pantheon Theatre and the Haymarket Theatre, and the present Theatre Royal. He engaged Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kean, and played them in Victoria, Sydney, and California, and returned to Melbourne 18th January, 1866. He was twice elected chairman of the Richmond Municipality, acted for two years as chairman of the magistrates there, and was appointed territorial justice of the peace. He was elected to the Legislative Council for the South-Western Province in 1858, was member of the Legislative Assembly for East Melbourne from 1874 to 1889, in which year he was returned to the Upper House without opposition for Melbourne province. The two most important measures when first elected to the Legislative Council were "The Transfer of Real Property" and the English "Post Office Savings Bank," which have proved of great advantage to the colony. Mr. Coppin was the founder of the Victorian Post Office Savings Bank, the Old Colonists' Association, the Victorian Humane Society, and the Dramatic and Musical Association, and has long been a director of the Commercial Bank, as well as of many financial companies.

The Herald's Visitations of both these counties give very full pedigrees of these families, which trace their common lineage to the time of the Conquest. A writ still exists in which William de Peverel, brother of WILLIAM the Conqueror, makes a grant of land to WILLIAM DE ROLLESTON and Amabel his wife. This William de Rolleston d. 1070, and was s. by MALGEOS DE ROLLESTON, one of the benefactors of the Rufford Monastery (see British Museum, MSS.), who d. 1140, from whom, fourth in descent, was

In 1860, he removed to Charlottetown, where he commenced business as a merchant. A staunch supporter of Sir John Macdonald, he took an active interest in the Confederation of the several provinces into the present dominion of Canada, and assisted largely in the establishment of a railway system throughout Prince Edward Island. In 1877 he was elected Mayor of the city of Charlottetown, and in 1879 was called to the Senate of Canada, which position he continued to hold until September, 1889, when he resigned to accept the appointment of Lieutenant-Governor of Prince Edward Island, and died while holding that office.

Lineage.

The CARVELLS of New Brunswick are of an old family of Dutch extraction, long resident in England. In the beginning of the 18th century they were proprietors of considerable landed estate at Goose Creek, near the River Delaware, not far from the present city of Trenton, in New Jersey. The Dutch family from whom they sprang was one of wealth and consideration. Between the dates of their departure from Holland and their arrival in America, they resided in Yorkshire, England, and afterwards in Wales. SIR JOHN CARVELL is mentioned as a lord of the manor of Mesforth or Melfort, temp. HENRY VIII. He was master of ordnance to that king.

LEWIS CARVELL, of Goose Creek, near Trenton, New Jersey, b. 1719; left issue, with two other sons and a daughter, a son,

VII. Gilbert.

Mr. Jacob Carvell, at the commencement of the revolutionary war, was noted for his staunch adherence to the Crown, and on this account was obnoxious to the revolutionary party. In the winter of 1774-75, he was arrested by the rebels and thrown into prison, where he was kept for a long time, during which he was cruelly treated, but finally escaping, he joined the 2nd battalion of the New Jersey Volunteers, famous in loyalist annals. He served with honour during the war, and was wounded towards its close at the battle of Bunker's Hill, a bullet passing through both cheeks. At the peace he embarked at New York, with a large party of loyalists, who were leaving their homes to settle in what is now the province of New Brunswick, and landed on the site of the present city of St. John in that province, 18th May, 1788. Sometime later his property on the St. John River, above Frederickton, was swept away by a flood from which he and his family narrowly escaped with their lives. Afterwards he acquired a large tract of land in the wilderness of the North Western New Brunswick, now known as Northampton, in Carleton co., where he lived until his death in 1821. His fourth son,

JACOB CARVELL, of St. John, New Brunswick, b. 12th April, 1793; m. at Frederickton,

New Brunswick, 1818, Isabella HENDERSON (who was b. 29th March, 1800, and d. 10th March, 1852), and had issue,

SIR GEOFFREY DE DUTTON, who obtained Aston, near Budworth, in which Arley lies. Sir Geoffrey became a Crusader, and the crest of the Warburtons is borne to commemorate an exploit performed by him. In the Harleian MSS. 139, p. 68, is a transcript from an ancient family record taken by Laurence Bostoke, 1572, in which the exploit is thus alluded to: "This Galfrid lived 1244, he was servynge his prince and vanquished a Sarrazin in combat, then begynnynge to seale with the Sarrazin's head." Sir Geoffrey had a son and heir,

SIR GEOFFREY DE DUTTON, Knt. (generally styled "D'nus Galfridus filius Galfridi de Dutton"), m. and had issue,

- VII. Angela Mary Candida, b. 1st February, 1875.

Sir Frederick was educated at Stonyhurst College, co. Lancaster (a school founded by his grandfather) and at Freiburg, in Switzerland. He emigrated to New Zealand in 1844, where he devoted himself to pastoral pursuits and explored much of the country. Having declined a nomination by Sir George Grey to the Legislature, he was foremost in the successful agitation for a representative house, to which he was elected as soon as it was conceded. He was a member of the Executive Council in the first government, and was, from 1860 to 1861, minister for native affairs. In November, 1864, Mr. Weld became Premier of New Zealand, at a most critical time, and found the country in a state of war, which he succeeded in suppressing without the assistance of the Imperial troops, which were withdrawn at his instance, relying only on the colonists themselves and the friendly tribes. He confiscated the lands of the defeated Waikato tribe, and sent an expedition to punish the murderers of the Rev. Mr. Volkner. His administration opened the Native Land Courts; passed through Parliament the Native Rights Bill, introduced by Mr. FitzGerald, connected by telegraph cable the two islands of New Zealand, and established a scientific department under Sir James Hector. The Weld Administration resigned in 1865, and Mr. Weld, much broken in health, returned to England. In September, 1869, he was appointed Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Western Australia. He there established a partially representative Legislature, an Education Act was passed, and churches of all denominations were treated alike according to the numbers of their congregations. He encouraged exploration and the construction of telegraph lines and steam communication. In January, 1875, Mr. Weld was appointed to the Governorship of Tasmania and was made a C.M.G. in that year. In 1880, he was promoted K.C.M.G., and appointed Governor of the Straits Settlements, which post he resigned in 1887 on his retirement from the Colonial Service. He had been promoted to the Grand Cross of his Order in 1885. Sir Frederick was also a Knight of the Order of Pius IX.

Lineage.

This is a younger branch of FULLER of Glashmacree (see BURKE'S Landed Gentry), a family of great respectability and opulence in the co. Kerry, possessing property in the neighbourhood of Dingle, the Samphires, Ballybunion, &c., long before the English settlers, under the "Plantation Scheme," established themselves in the locality. (See BURKE'S Commoners.) The first of whom there is any record was,

JOHN FULLER, who is mentioned in the Desmond Survey, A.D. 1583, as possessed of the townland of Bowlerstown (Ballybowler), and "certain lands in Ballybeg." He mortgaged Bowlerstown to Stephen Rice, 1610. According to an inquisition taken at Killarney, he and Maurice Fuller (probably his son) were seized in fee of the townlands of Ballyristin or Ballyristeenig and Ballytobin or Ballytobeenig, and conveyed them in 1635 to Teige Moriarty. That John Fuller was a man of mark at this period appears by an inquisition taken at Killarney, 18th August, 1635 (Inq. No. 59, CHARLES I, co. Macdonell.

JOHN ALEXANDER MACDONELL, M.D. of Port Arthur, Ontario, Canada, b. 23rd May, 1844.

Lineage.

The clan MACDONALD, or McDONNELL, is undoubtedly one of the most ancient in Scotland, and can be traced back to a period coeval with that of any family in the Kingdom. The first of the race from whom any authentic accounts exists, is SOMERLED, designed by Scottish historians, Thane of Argyll, but by foreign authors and charters extant, King of the Isles, and Lord of Argyll and Kintyre. Among his descendants has long been disputed the chieftainship, and many and acrimonious have been the conflicts on the subject.

REGINALD MACDONALD, son of JOHN MACDONELL, Lord of the Isles, seventh in the descent from SOMERLED, received from his father a very large estate, as appears from a charter of confirmation by King ROBERT, dated 1st January, 1373. This Reginald is stated to have been murdered by the Earl of Ross, in the Abbey of Elcho, at Perth, while heading the men of the Isles as their lawful chieftain. He left with other issue, a son,

DONALD MACDONELL, of Glengarry, who was served heir to his father in the principal part of his fortune, and became a powerful baron. He left (with a younger son Ranald, from whom descend many of the MACDONNELLS, of Perthshire) an elder son and heir,

JOHN MACDONELL, of Glengarry, who m. a daughter of MACLEOD of Lewes, and was father of,

ALASTAIR MACDONELL, of Glengarry, who m. the only daughter of MACLEAN, of Dowart, and had three sons,

Mr. Thomas Livingstone-Learmonth, one of the pioneers of colonisation in Australia, left Tasmania accompanied by his brother Somerville, in 1837 and landed at Port Philip Bay, when Melbourne, now a very large city, was only a cluster of tents, with one wooden cottage, occupied by Captain Lonsdale, the newly appointed Governor. After landing where the town of Geelong now stands, the two brothers gradually explored the country, pushed into the interior and reached the high peak (not far from the site of Ballarat, where the rich gold diggings were discovered in 1851), which they called Ercildoun in memory of an old keep on the Scottish border, associated with their family history. The Ercildoun property, on which they established a station, was afterwards sold to Sir Samuel Wilson. Mr. Thomas Livingstone-Learmonth, who was for some time member of the Upper House in Victoria, left that colony in 1868, and returned home to Scotland, where he now resides, though he still owns some large sheep runs on the Murrumbidgee River, in New South Wales.

Mr. W. B. Vail succeeded to the office held by Sir Charles Tupper when the several provinces were confederated, and was leader of the Government in the Provincial Legislature for the first two parliamentary terms after the union, a very critical period in the history of his province, and it was largely due to his loyalty, tact, and popularity with his party, that the legislature of Nova Scotia decided to accept the situation and give the Union Act a fair trial. It was during his term of office as Minister of Militia and Defence of Canada, that the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ontario, was built and opened, where up to the present time, eighty-five of the total number of cadets, who have graduated, have been given commissions in the Imperial Army, several of them having served with distinction. The Hon. W. B. Vail was elected member of the Provincial Legislature in September, 1867; was sworn a member of the Executive Council of Nova Scotia, and appointed provincial secretary of the province on the 7th November, 1867, which office he held, together with that of leader of the Government, in the House of Assembly, till the 30th September, 1874, when he was sworn of the Queen's Privy Council of Canada, and appointed minister of Militia and Defence, which office he held till January, 1878, when he resigned. Hon. W. B. Vail sat for Digby, Nova Scotia, in the House of Assembly from 1867, until his appointment to office in the Dominion Government, when he was returned for the same county in the House of Commons of Canada, and with the exception of one short term continued to represent Digby co. till 1887.

Macdonell.

JOHN ALEXANDER MACDONELL, of Greenfield, co. Glengarry, Canada, Q.C., Captain 59th Battalion, Stormont and Glengarry Militia, barrister-at-law, 1875, Queen's Counsel, 1890, b. 26th June, 1851, m. Isabel, daughter of the Hon. John Willoughby CRAWFORD, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and Helen his wife, daughter of the Hon. Livius Peters SHERWOOD, justice of the Queen's Bench, of Upper Canada.

Lineage.

This family descends through the Lochgarry branch, from JOHN MACDONELL, the brother of ALASTAIR, of Glengarry, the bearer of the Royal Standard at Killiecrankie, whose line became extinct in 1868, and of Angus, of Scotthouse, whose descendants now inherit the senior representation of the family. (See BURKE'S Landed Gentry, MACDONELL of Glengarry, and BURKE'S Extinct Peerage, MACDONELL AND ABBASS, B.)

JOHN MACDONELL, who was third son of REGINALD MACDONELL of Scotus or Scotthouse, and Flora, his wife, daughter of Alexander MACLEOD of Drynoch, and younger brother ALASTAIR DHU, 13th Chief of Glengarry, and ANGUS MACDONELL, from whom derives the present chief. (See p. 658.) He m. first, a daughter of Hugh MACDONALD, son of Sir James MACDONALD, Bart., of Slate, and by her had issue, a daughter. He m. secondly, Margery, daughter of CAMERON of Dungallon, and had issue, two sons,

I. Donald, of Lochgarry, who was appointed lieutenant in Loudon's Highlanders in 1745, but joined PRINCE CHARLES STUART and was lieutenant-colonel in the Glengarry Regiment under Ennas, the second son of Glengarry. He escaped with PRINCE CHARLES after Culloden,* and became a Colonel in the French service. He was exempted by name from the Act of Indemnity in 1747, and remained till his death, one of the most devoted and trusted adherents of the STUARTS, and with CAMERON of Fassifern, Lord ELIBANK, and his brother Alexander MURRAY, was at the head of the desperate and futile effort made for the restoration of that dynasty, and in which Fassifern was apprehended and executed.

II. ANGUS, of whom we treat.

The second son,

ANGUS MACDONELL, of Greenfield, who was a major in the Glengarry Regiment at Culloden in 1746, m. first a daughter of GRANT, of Thoughtby, and sister of Colonel Hugh GRANT, of Moy, H.E.I.C.S., whose mother was a daughter of John, sixth laird of Glenmoriston, and grand-daughter of Sir Ewen CAMERON of Lochiel. He m. secondly, a daughter of MACKENZIE, of Fairburn, and was father of,

2nd Battalion of Glengarry Militia, in the war of 1812-14. He m. Janet, daughter of Alexander MACDONELL, * of Aberchalder, captain 1st Battalion King's Royal Regiment of New York, and sister of Lieutenant-Colonel John MACDONELL, one of the most distinguished loyalist officers of the Revolutionary war, and subsequently Lieutenant-Colonel 2nd Battalion R.C.V. Regiment of Foot, and speaker of the first House of Assembly of Upper Canada, and d. 1819, having by her had issue,

- i. Hugh, d. ssm. at the Scots Cottage, Valladolid, Spain.
- ii. Angus, was murdered in the conflicts between Lord Selkirk's Company and the North-West Company, of which latter he was a partner; he d. ssm.
- iii. DUNCAN, of whom presently.
- iv. John, M.P. for Glengarry, and Attorney-General of Upper Canada, b. 19th April, 1785, served as colonel of Militia and military secretary and A.D.C. to Major-General Sir Isaac the Isles, quotes from the well known Scottish authority, Mrs. Grant of Loggan, who wrote, "A few such lingering instances of the old superior Highland dress continued to be seen as late as the end of the last century, one of its latest examples being afforded by Macdonell of Greenfield 'Ceann Tighe' of a cadet house of the Glengarry family, who in the latter part of the last century was celebrated for his handsome person, his courtly address, his exploits as a deer stalker, and general character as a model of the Highland gentleman living in his time. He is described by several of the old people by whom he was remembered, as dressed invariably in Highland garb, a short round 'cota goirid,' a bonnet plumed with a tuft of ostrich feather, the belted plaid worn over the trews. The House of Greenfield stood in a beautiful, romantic situation near the head of Lochgarry, on a green knoll, since occupied by the hunting lodge, built by the late Glengarry for deer stalking, of Sliabh-garbh."

* ALEXANDER MACDONELL, of Aberchalder, a captain in the King's Royal Regiment of New York, settled on the River St. Lawrence, in Charlottenburg, and built there Glengarry House, which was burnt in 1813. He had issue,

- i. John, captain in Butler's Rangers, first member, with his brother, of the Legislative Assembly for Glengarry, 1792; Speaker of the first House of Assembly of Upper Canada; was lieutenant-colonel commanding 2nd Battalion Royal Canadian Volunteer Regiment of Foot (which was disbanded at the Peace of Amiens in 1802); he m. the daughter of — YATES, of Schenectady, New York, and left issue,

Alexander, major Lancaster Regiment of Glengarry Highlanders, served in the 1837 rebellion, and had issue, two daughters, of whom one survives.

Colonel Matthews, for many years military secretary to Sir Frederick Haldimand and Sir Guy Carleton (Lord Dorchester) during the Revolutionary war of the United States, 1776-83, in a letter addressed to the Under Secretary for War bore the following testimony to the services of Colonel John Macdonell during that eventful time. "When the rebellion broke out they were the first to fly to arms on the part of the Government, in which they and their adherents—not less than 200 men—took a most active and decided lead, leaving their families and property at the mercy of the rebels. I was at that time quartered at Niagara and an eye-witness of the gallant and successful exertions of the Macdonells and their dependents, by which in a great measure the Upper Country of Canada was preserved. Captain Macdonell's father and uncle, at that time advanced in years, had companies in that corps, and in which his elder brother, afterwards an active and distinguished partizan, carried arms. The sons of both families, five or six in number, the moment they could bear arms, followed the bright example of their father, and soon became active and useful officers in that, and another corps of Rangers whose strength and services greatly contributed to unite the Indians of the five nations in the interest of Government, and thereby decidedly to save the Upper Country of Canada and our Indian trade."

- ii. Hugh Macdonell, a lieutenant of the King's Royal Regiment, of New York, was elected with his brother, first member of the Legislative Assembly for Glengarry; was a Captain Royal Canadian Volunteer Regiment, and Lieutenant-Colonel of the Glengarry Militia Regiment in 1803; was first Adjutant-General of Militia in Upper Canada, 1811 to 1820. He was afterwards Consul-General at Algiers. He m. first, the daughter of — HUGHES, and secondly, the daughter of Admiral ULRICH, Danish Consul-General at Algiers, and by her, who m. secondly, the DUKE DE TALLEYRAND-PERIGORD, and d. 1870, he had, with eight daughters, two sons,

1. Alexander (Sir), K.C.B., general in the army, colonel commanding 2nd Battalion Prince Consort's Own Rifle Brigade, b. 1820, entered the army 23rd June, 1837, and became general, 1st April, 1882. Sir Alexander served with the Rifle Brigade in the Kafir war of 1846-7 (medal), throughout the Eastern campaign of 1854, as A.D.C. to Sir George Brown, was present at Balaklava, Alma, and Inkerman; commanded the 2nd Battalion of his regiment from May, 1855, to the fall of Sebastopol, including the defence of the Quarries, and the assaults on the Redan (medal, with three clasps, brevets of major and lieutenant-colonel,

H.R.H. the Prince Regent, in expressing his regret at the loss which the country must experience by the death of the attorney-general, was also graciously pleased to declare that "his zealous co-operation with Sir Isaac Brock would reflect lasting honour on his memory." (See the despatch of Earl Bathurst to H.E. Sir George Prevost, 8th December, 1812.) He d. unm.

H.E. the administrator of the Government of Canada being unavoidably prevented from attending the ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the monument erected on Queenston Heights to commemorate the victory, deputed as his representative Lieutenant-Colonel Donald Macdonell, and was pleased to express "the satisfaction which it afforded him to nominate for this deeply interesting ceremony the brother of the gallant officer who fell nobly by the side of Major-General Brock, in the perform-

Lineage.

This is a branch of the very ancient family of TWINING, of Twining, Tewkesbury, co. Gloucester, which lordship or manor belonged to the Abbey of Winchcombe from the Norman Conquest to the dissolution of the monasteries in 1539. The registers at Twining and those at Painswick and Pershore make frequent reference to the TWININGS, of Twining, to the year 1800, the earliest record being that of THOMAS TWINING, of Tewkesbury, who was b. 1360. From 1474 to 1488, another THOMAS TWINING was abbot of Winchcombe. We find also in the British Museum and in the record office many documents giving an account of the siege of Evesham by the Parliamentary forces, and the trial and defence before Cromwell's commissioners of LIEUTENANT JOHN TWINING, who was taken prisoner there on the 26th May, 1645, by Colonel Massey. He was twice imprisoned and his property confiscated, 1651. Lineage.

This family derives its name from Cailly (Cailleum) a place a few miles north-east of Rouen, and in the "Ballivium Caleti" or bailiwick of Caux, in Normandy. Here there was a fortress called "Castellum Caillei," which was held by baronial tenure, as the "Honour (or barony) de Cailly."

SIMON DE CAILLY, Lord of Massingham, Cranwick, Broder cross, Hiburgh, etc., in Norfolk (the son of HUMPHREY DE CAILLY, temp. WILLIAM I), had by Alice, his wife, two sons,

- I. ROGER, his heir.
- II. Jordanus (Sir), who held a Knight's fee in Norfolk, under Hugh Bigod, Earl of Norfolk, and another fee in Warwickshire under Robert Marston.

The elder son,

ROGER DE CAILLY, temp. HENRY II, was one of the most wealthy and influential barons of his time. His name appears, in that King's reign, as witness to a deed, along with the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Constable de Humez, and other distinguished nobles of the same date. His son,

JOHN DE CAILLY, was, as appears by a trial, Lord of Cranwick, temp. RICHARD I. He was also Lord of Massingham, Bradenham, Oxburgh, Denver, Hillington, Hecham, Hildburgh, etc. His daughter, Beatrix, m. William DE BUTERY. His son,

JOHN DE CAILLY, was lord of these manors & JOHN (1202). He m. Margery (who after his death, m. Michael de POYNINGS). His son,

ADAM DE CAILLY, is mentioned, 17 JOHN, in a mandate to Hervey Belot, which orders "that he do not receive into the King's peace, Hugh de Plaiz, Michael de Poynings, William de Stuteville, William de Mortimer, Adam de Cailly and Robert de Clere, until the King otherwise commands. Witness, the King, at Stamford, 28th February." Adam de Cailly paid £5 to plead before the King, in the case of wastes in Bradenham Forest, during the dower of Margerie, his mother, who was married to Michael de Poynings, she being "to have only reasonable estovers of house - bote, heldge-bote, and wood to burn, by view of the forester of Adam de Kayly." By Mabel, his wife, he had, with other sons,

- I. Sir Osbert de Cailli, his heir, m. Emma, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Robert, Lord TATSHALL, of Bokenham, and by her acquired Buckenham Castles and its large estates. Authorities differ, however, as to whether Adam or Osbert de Cailly married this heiress of the Albinis. Sir Osbert, in the time of EDWARD I, claimed assize of bread and beer, view of frankpledge, etc., in the towns of Bradenham, Oxburgh, Cranwick, and Hilburgh, as having been possessed by his family from the time of the Conquest. Sir Osbert had issue,
 1. Adam (Sir), appears to have been by a former wife and not by Emma de Tatsball, as his son, Edmund de Cailly, who inherited Denver, and other manors anciently belonging to the family, did not succeed to Buckenham. Sir Adam is mentioned in a list of knights - bannerets, in the early part of EDWARD II's reign, giving his arms thus "Sire Adam de Cayli, Chekere de or e de goules a une bende ermine." In 2 EDWARD III, he was ransomed from captivity in Scotland.
 2. Thomas (Sir), of Buckenham Castle, lord of the barony, to which he & through his mother Emma, was summoned, to perform military service against the Scots' muster at Carlisle, 22nd August, 1308. He was summoned to Parliament as Baron de Cailly, of Buckenham, to attend at Westminster, 27th April, 1309, again, in the same year, at Stamford; again (8th February, 1310) at York; and in London 1311. Thomas, Lord Cayley, d. s. p., and was s. by his sister.

- I. Margerie, m. Roger de CLIFTON, esquire to her brother, and had a son, Sir Adam de Clifton, who was summoned to Parliament as Baron Clifton de Buckenham, (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage).

JAMES PURVES COOK CURDIE, of Tamworth Station, Hughenden, Queensland, b. 30th November, 1835; m. at Erinvale, Warwick, Queensland, 28th January, 1890, Agnes Matilda, fifth daughter of John ARMSTRONG, of Erinvale.

Lineage.

In the 12th century, three brothers came from the north of Ireland, and settled in the west of Scotland. Their names were Laoman, Lauchlan, and Curarty, or Curartney. The first settled in the west of Comal, in the district now known as Lamont, from the name of the family, the second to the north of Lamont, in the district now known as Strath-lauchlan, and the third settled in Bute. While representatives of Laoman and Lauchlan still possess the lands first held by them, the representatives of Curartney have been scattered. Baron McKirdy, of Fubas, in Bute, appears to have sold his lands to the Bute family some time between 1690 and 1660, and between these two dates, a younger son of his went to Arran, as the Rev. James McKirdy, vicar of Kilmory, in Arran, from whom James Purves Cook Curdie is lineally descended. The Rev. JAMES CURDIE, D.D. (Mr. J. P. C. Curdie's grand uncle), sometime rector of St. Ann's, Jamaica, and afterwards vicar of Henley-on-Thames, co. Oxford, England, dropped the prefix of Mac from the name, adopting the form of Curdy or Curdie, which is in reality the same name as Court, Courtney, etc., which are still common in Ireland.

Lineage.

The DE CASTELLAS, a very ancient noble family of Fribourg, Switzerland, have furnished a number of eminent men, members of the government of that canton, ecclesiastics, and distinguished officers, who flourished especially in the French service from the time of Louis XIV to Louis XVIII, and amongst whom were eleven generals and colonels of the Swiss Guard and thirteen Knights of St. Louis. This family possessed the lordships of Villardvolard, Chatel St. Denys, Berlens, Villardin and Delley. The DE CASTELLAS of Gruyère possessed the two first-named lordships, and to this branch the DE CASTELLAS, established in Australia, belong. The DE CASTELLAS of Berlens were particularly illustrious in France, where they were created by Louis XV. Counts de Castella. This branch is now extinct in the male line, but is represented in Australia by CHARLES, BARON DE FÉGELY (m. to Anne CARRE-RIDDLE), grandson of a daughter of General Count Nicholas de Castella. The branch of Villardin is also now extinct, but that of Delley is still represented in Fribourg. All derive their origin from,

JOHANNETUS CASTELLA, of Nigra-aqua (now Nérive), owner of the tithes of Nigra-aqua and Montbovon. He lived from 1365 to 1401, and appears in several documents as fidei-jussor of Rudolphe IV, Count de Gruyère, a powerful lord whose estates held some 50,000 inhabitants. Akerman.

SIR JOHN WILLIAM AKERMAN, K.C.M.G., formerly Speaker of the Legislative Council of Natal, b. at Plymouth, 16th August, 1825; m. first, 28th June, 1850, Jane, daughter of C. STANTIAL, of Corsham, and has had issue,

- I. James, b. 1852, d. in infancy.
- I. Susan, b. 1854, d. in infancy.
- II. Elizabeth Charlotte, b. 16th October, 1855, m. December, 1878, Thomas Daniel BARRY, M.L.A., of Lismore, Swellendam, Cape Colony, who d. October, 1890.
- III. Catherine, b. 1856, d. in infancy.

Sir John m. secondly, 3rd January, 1878, Emma Elizabeth, daughter of W. H. BRUMBY, of Bath, and by her had issue,

- II. Conrad, b. 8th October, 1878.

Sir J. W. Akerman embarked at Plymouth in the "British Tar," bound for Natal, and arrived there in September, 1850, and is one of the few survivors of the English colonists of that early period, the real founders of the colony's fortunes. He took up his abode amongst the Dutch inhabitants of the upper districts of the colony for the purpose of acquiring a knowledge of their method of farming, their language, and their modes of thought, an acquisition which proved of great use to him in after years. In 1855, he removed to Pietermaritzburg, and turned his attention to the profession in which he had been trained for eleven years in the mother country, where he was one of the foundation associates of the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain. He retired from business in 1875, and devoted himself entirely to public life. He sat from 1857 to 1862 as member of the Municipal Corporation of Pietermaritzburg, and was mayor of that city for one year, when he founded the Alexandra Park, and carried out other important town improvements. He sat for Pietermaritzburg in the Legislative Council almost continuously from 1862 to 1892, and was one of its most active members and a leader of a large party in that house, and is identified with all the great legislative measures of those years. In 1870 he was summoned to the Executive Council, and was the first elective member so honoured. He was appointed a justice of the peace in 1863 for Pietermaritzburg, and subsequently for the whole colony. In October, 1880, he was elected Speaker, and was re-elected on four other occasions. His tenure of this office extended to nearly twelve years. He represented Natal at the Colonial and Indian Exhibition in 1886, and was created a K.C.M.G. in the following year, being the first Natal colonist, holding only an elective office, so honoured by Her Majesty. Sir John has been president, vice-president, or committee-man in most of the public institutions of the colony, including the Natal Society, the Natal Rifle Association, the Botanic Society, and many others. He has served on almost all the important commissions of his colony. Sir John started, during the war, the "Zulu War Relief Fund" and the "Sick and Wounded Fund," and succeeded in collecting nearly £8,000 from Natal, the adjacent states, and Mauritius, where his name was well known. In April, 1892, he resigned his office, owing to ill-health, after a residence of forty years in the colony, thirty-five of which had been devoted to an active and unremitting public life.

Lineage.

It remains a matter of some uncertainty whether this family of AKERMAN is descended, as some contend, from the Counts AKERMAN, of Bessarabia, or have derived their origin elsewhere. More than one family of the same name have lived in this country.

PATRICK JAMES FREDERICK GRÆME, of Rigby, Lake Dauphin, and Beulah, Manitoba, Canada; recently of Inchbrakie and Aberuthven, co. Perth, N.B., late Lieutenant 79th Highlanders, b. 16th March, 1849, s. his father in the Scotch estates 20th December, 1854. Having sold this property he settled in Manitoba.

Lineage.

This ancient family derives its lineage from GRAEME, who was made Governor of Scotland and guardian to the young king, EUGENE II, in 435. Graeme broke down the famous wall of Antinincus, extending across the country from east to west, from Grangemouth on the Firth of Forth to Dumbarton, and called to this day Græm's Dyke. His descendant SIR WILLIAM GRAEME, of Kincardine, had a charter from the Duke of Albany, 1407, of entail of the lands of Auld Montrose; from Sir William's marriage with Mariota, daughter of Sir John OLIPHANT, of Aberdalgy, descended William, the first Earl of Montrose, who was killed at Flodden, 1513. The earl, by his third wife, Christiana, daughter of Thomas WAVEN, of Stevenson, the relict of Patrick, sixth Lord of Hallyburton, had two sons, PATRICK, of whom we treat, and Andrew, who entered the church, and became first Protestant bishop of Dunblane; the former,

PATRICK GRAEME, of Inchbrakie, was a minor at his father's death, and his mother, the Countess of Montrose, was appointed his guardian. By a charter dated 20th June, 1513, and now in possession of the family, the earl conferred on this Patrick and his heirs male, the lands of Inchbrakie, Fowlis, and Aberuthven. Patrick m. Margaret STEWART, daughter of Lord Fleming and grand-daughter of the Duke of Albany, brother of King JAMES IV, and by her (w.l.o m. secondly, Sir Duncan CAMPBELL, of Glenorchy), had issue,

I. GEORGE, his heir.

II. Robert, archdeacon of Ross, he was commissioned by the Kirk Assembly to reform the parishes of Caithness and Sutherland in 1574, and was ancestor of the GRAEMES of Drynie, co. Ross.

I. Nichola, m. David MURRAY, of Ochtertyre, who was killed at the battle of Pinkey, 1547.

III. Margaret, m. first, CAMPBELL, of Ardkinglass, and second, Robert BUCHANAN, of Lenny.

Patrick built the Castle of Inchbrakie, which was besieged and burned by Cromwell, but the extensive moat which surrounded it still remains, and close beside it stands one of the largest yew trees in Scotland, the thick branches of which once hid the Great Marquis from the Covenanting troops. He d. in 1548, and was s. by his eldest son,

GEORGE GRAEME, of Inchbrakie, a minor, but who was served heir to his father in 1555. He m. Margaret, daughter of Andrew ROLLO, baron of Duncrub, ancestor of Lord Rollo, and by her (who m. secondly, John GRAEME, of Balgowan) had issue,

I. PATRICK, his successor.

II. John, the first of the family of the GRAEMES, of Bucklivie, he was killed by the McGregors at Glenfruan in 1602.

III. George, Bishop of Orkney, a somewhat noted prelate of that day, was laureated at the University of St. Andrews, 1587, minister of Clunie from 1589-95, of Auchtergaven and Logiebride, 1595-1601, of Scone, 1601 to 1603, when he accepted the bishopric of Dunblane; in 1615 he was translated to the bishopric of Orkney; from which he was deposed in 1639. He m. Marion, daughter of Sir Robert CRICHTON, of Clunie and Elliock, and a sister of the Admirable CRICHTON, he had four sons and three daughters,

1. David, who founded the family of GRAEMES, of Gorthy, and to whom was assigned the honour of removing the head of the Great Marquis of Montrose from the spike on the Tolbooth of Edinburgh.

2. Patrick, who founded the family of GRAEME, of Graemes Hall, Orkney.

3. John, who became GRAEME, of Breckness, in Orkney.

4. Mungo.

1. Jane.

2. Margory, m. 1633, to Patrick DRUMMOND, of Blair.

3. Catherine, m. 1618, to George SMYTHE, of Braco, founder of the SMYTHES, of Methven.

The bishop d. about or previous to 1643.

I. Beatrice, m. to DRUMMOND, of Bolloch.

II. Margory, m. John MAXTON, of Cul-tuquhey.

III. Lillias, m. first, COLVILLE, of Condie, and secondly, Laurence OLIPHANT, of Gask. She was the ancestress of Caroline Oliphant, BARONESS NAIRNE, the songstress of Scotland.

IV. Ann, m. George ROBERTSON, of Faskelly.

George d. in 1576, and was s. by his eldest son.

PATRICK GRAEME, of Inchbrakie, who was a minor at his father's death; he m. first, Nicholas, daughter of BROWN, of Fordell, and had by her,

I. GEORGE, his heir.

II. John.

I. Marian, m. in 1607, Sir James OLIPHANT, of Newton.

II. A daughter, m. TOSHACH, of Monyie-vaird.

III. Another daughter, m. Finlay MC-NABB, of that ilk.

Patrick m. secondly, Margaret SCOTT, heiress of Monzie, co. Perth (a branch of the SCOTTS, of Balweenie), and by her had a son,

III. James Graeme, of Monzie, who was great-grandfather of DAVID GRAEME, of Orchill, who was one of the jury on the service of Patrick Graeme, of Inchbrakie, in 1770, when served heir to the earldom of Montrose.

Patrick, who acquired a royal charter, dated 1607, of the barony and lands of Invermay from Sir Robert Grahame, Knt., d. in 1635, and was s. by his eldest son,

GEORGE GRAEME, of Inchbrakie, had a charter of Tullybelton in 1610, and built the house of Tullybelton in 1619. This George suffered severely during the civil wars, having been fined and imprisoned in 1641. He m. Margaret, daughter of Sir Alexander KEITH, of Ludgubairn, of a younger branch of the Keiths, Earls Marischal, and had issue,

I. PATRICK, his heir.

I. Beatrice, m. Alexander ROBERTSON, of Lude.

II. Margaret, m. Alexander ROBERTSON, of Strowan.

George, of Inchbrakie d. in 1654, and was s. by his son,

PATRICK GRAEME, of Inchbrakie, the well-known royalist of his time, who in conjunction with the great Marquis of Montrose, is mentioned in all the histories of the period. Original letters from the Marquis to Inchbrakie are still preserved in the family. This Patrick commanded the Atholl Highlanders and was known as "Black Pate" (though a fair man) owing to his having met with an accident by the blowing up of gunpowder in his face. He received a commission signed by the "Nobleman, Barons, and landed gentlemen of Perthshire to be colonel of their force which they raised in obedience to the King's command, bearing date 24th June, 1651." On account of his adherence to the royal cause, this laird suffered great losses in property having to sell his estates of Foulis and Tulliebelton, as well as outlawry and imprisonment, and prior to his release by Cromwell, a bond was signed by the Earl of Tullybardin and Lord Drummond, in 1654 "that the said Colonel Patrick Graeme should do nothing to hurt the Commonwealth of England nor their armies in Scotland." The only reward his loyalty met with on the Restoration was an offer of a baronetcy, and a grant of arms; the baronetcy was declined, but the grant of arms, with new crest and motto accepted. He m. Jean, daughter of Lord MADDERTY, and had issue,

I. GEORGE, his successor,

II. The Hon. R. H. D. White held the position of bank manager in the Bank of New South Wales for over twenty-three years. While in the employ of the bank at Deniliquin, the office was attacked by armed bushrangers, who bound the manager and Mr. White with ropes, and decamped with £8,000; but Mr. White following them single-handed on horseback, and armed with a gun, eventually overtook them, and recovered some thousands of the stolen money. On a second occasion Mr. White was attacked by bushrangers, when, on the 19th April, 1868, at Currie's Hotel, on the Gympie Road, Queensland, he defended himself, single-handed, against five armed men. For this he received a testimonial and a present from the Government, and presents from the Bank of New South Wales, and the townspeople of Rockhampton. Mr. White is a retired captain in the Queensland Volunteer Forces, and a justice of the peace for the colonies of New South Wales, Victoria (central bailiwick), and Queensland. He was appointed a commissioner to the Exhibition in Melbourne, 1880-1, and to the Colonial and Indian Exhibition, held in London 1886; was formerly member of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales for Gloucester, and was called to a seat in the Upper House on the 30th December, 1887.

Baronage states that Sir Edward Montagu, of Hemington, the progenitor of the Earls and Dukes of Manchester, was a descendant of a branch of the family.

SIR EDWARD MONTAGU, Knt., a distinguished lawyer, son of THOMAS MONTAGU, of Hemington, by Agnes, his wife, daughter of William DUMEX, of Clopton, was appointed Lord Chief Justice of the court of King's Bench in 1559, which office he resigned in 1545, and was constituted in the same year Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas; "a decent," says Fuller, "in honour, but an ascent in profit." Sir Edward was also of the privy council, and in such high favour and esteem with his sovereign, HENRY VIII., that the king appointed him one of those sixteen executors of his last will and testament who should be regents of the kingdom, and governors to his son, EDWARD VI. Upon the accession of CHARLES I., his lordship was advanced (5th February, 1626) to an earldom, as EARL OF MANCHESTER; and subsequently appointed Lord Privy Seal. He was also of her cabinet council and the chief instrument of introducing Cardinal Mazarin to Her Majesty. In 1643 he was apprehended at Rochester, coming to England with letters of importance, and he remained in confinement in that country until 1647, when he was banished the kingdom by a vote of parliament. Lineage.

The old Anglo-Norman house of MARTIN of Galway, is descended from one of the officers who accompanied De Burgh, the ancestor of the noble family of Clanricarde, to Ireland, temp. HENRY II, and upon the conquest of Galway, settled there. The family, which in Geoffrey Lynch's MS. (T.C.D.), written nearly two centuries and a half ago, is described even then as being ancient in Galway, is now represented in that county by two houses, of unknown seniority, that of Ross, and that of Tillyra Castle. This latter was, though Roman Catholic, by special dispensation of the Act of ANNE, because of the relief and protection afforded to Protestants, the only Papist family, recognised by statute, as then entitled to hold lands. The family of Ballinahinch Castle of which we treat, is a branch of the house of Ross, but it so quickly overshadowed the parent stock in possessions and powers, that it has been wrongly deemed the senior stem. The history of this branch, once possessed of such vast territories, forms one of the most romantic chapters in the Vicissitudes of Families. In the Book of Pedigrees (vol. x), in Ulster's Office, Dublin Castle, the arms are stated to have been granted to Oliver Martin, by RICHARD I, in the Holy Land. Passing over early individual members of the family, such as Thomas MARTIN, living in Galway, 1310; Jeffrey Martin, who held lands of the Earl of Clanricarde in 1334; Thomas, who had property in Galway, 1365; Richard, who likewise held lands, 1390; Peter, high sheriff of Galway, 1498, and Sir Richard Martin, who in 1533 received a grant of "three places" in the "King's Water," near Galway, the unbroken record begins with ROBERT MARTIN, who in 1590, was possessed of the lands, now held by his lineal descendant and heir, ROBERT JASPER MARTIN, of Ross, the head of the family. He was high sheriff 1607, and d. during his year of office, as mayor of Galway, 20th April, 1621, and was s. by his eldest son,

JASPER MARTIN, who was found by inquisition, made in 1635, to have died 12th April, 1629, seised of the lands of Ross and other denominations in the West of Galway, all of which descended to his son and heir,

ROBERT MARTIN, of Ross, high sheriff 1614, who adhered to the cause of CHARLES I. Upon the conquest of Galway 1624, he was dispossessed of his house in the town of Galway, and his property in the suburbs, by Sir Charles Coote, commanding the Parliamentary troops, who occupied it. This house and the other property of Mr. Martin were granted to Edward Eyre (judge advocate of the force under Sir Charles Coote), who was also intruded into the recordership of the town, by the expulsion of the gentleman who held that office. Mr. Martin made an effort to be restored to his house and property on the restoration of CHARLES II, but without success, though he held the King's warrant under his own signature to that effect (see Journals of the Irish House of Commons, vol. i, p. 489). Robert Martin d. 1701, leaving issue,

- I. JASPER, of Ross, from whom descends the family of MARTIN, of Ross (see BURKE's Landed Gentry).
- II. James, of Maghera, co. Galway, m. (articles dated 22nd June, 1667), Mary, eldest daughter of Marcus D'ARCY, of Clogherane, co. Galway, and d. s. p.
- III. RICHARD, of whom we treat.

The third son,

CAPTAIN RICHARD MARTIN, of Birch Hall, and Dangan (surnamed "Nimble Dick"), whom Hardiman the historian of Galway describes as one of the most remarkable men of his time in Ireland. He was Captain in Lord Bophin's Regiment in King JAMES II's Irish army. He had received grants under the Acts of Settlement after the restoration of CHARLES II, of immense estates in the counties of Galway, Mayo, Roscommon, Clare, and Sligo, those in the west of Galway being largely a part of the confiscated possessions of the O'Flaherties. He fought at Aughrim and other battles but received a full pardon 26th July, 1695, and on 5th July, 1698, by royal letters patent from King WILLIAM, his vast territory west of the town of Galway, containing a quarter of a million statute acres, exclusive of his other estates, was erected into the manor of Clare, otherwise Claremont. As he was notoriously what was then called a "rank Papist," the grant of this princely manor caused a great outcry, so great that on 17th January in the same year the Irish Parliament presented an address to the lords justices praying that his letters patent might be revoked, and the lords justices promptly undertook to "lay the matter before the king and do everything agreeable to the desire of the House," but such was "Nimble Dick's" influence at court that even these measures were of no avail, and, subject to bloody feuds with the fierce O'Flaherties, he remained in undisturbed occupation of his possessions. He is stated to have been the owner of the largest estates in fee simple, of any gentleman in the three kingdoms. He was b. circa 1635-8, made his will 14th February, 1730, which was proved 13th May, 1731, m. Catherine, daughter of Robuck FRENCH, of Duras Park, co. Galway, and had issue,

- I. Robert, surnamed "the Brave," b. circa 1682, was assassinated by his hereditary enemies, the O'Flaherties, 1705, s. p. An altar and cairn of stones mark the spot where he was found stabbed in the back on the road to Birch Hall from Lemonfield.
- II. ANTHONY, of whom presently.
- I. Christina, a nun (in religion Theresa).
- II. Annable, m. first, Edmond FITZPATRICK, of Loughmore, Aran, who d. 1717-8, leaving a son, Rickard, M.P. for Galway, who d. s. p. 1761. She m. secondly, 1718, Michael O'FLAHERTY, of Park, co. Galway (heir to the historian Roderick O'Flaherty), and had issue, a son, Michael, d. s. p.
- III. Mary, m. 25th March, 1703, Patrick KIRWAN, of Cregg Castle, co. Galway, and had issue.
- IV. Margaret, m. Martin BLAKE, of Cummer, co. Galway, son of Andrew BLAKE, and had issue.
- V. Elizabeth, will dated 11th March, 1737, proved 18th October, 1739.

He returned to New Zealand and was member for Christchurch from 1887 to 1891, in the House of Representatives, of which he was elected chairman of committees, but resigned the position on his appointment in 1891, as agent-general in London, in which year he was created a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory by Pope LEO XIII. He has represented his colony on the governing body of the Imperial Institute since 1892, and is a member of the council of the Society of Arts. He was created K.C.M.G., 1st January, 1894.

Lineage.

ROBERT, Lord of Breherval, Montinney, and Vasse, in Normandy, the first of this family who came into England, held, with his other great possessions, the Castle of Yvery, in the Duchy, by the service of three knights' fees. He is presumed to have been a younger son of Eudes, Sovereign Duke of Brittany, and accompanying the Conqueror in 1066, was rewarded with the lordships of Karry and Harpetree, in the co. of Somerset; but returning afterwards into Normandy, he d. of a grievous illness, soon after the year 1083, and was s. by his eldest son,

ASCELIN GOUEL DE PERCEVAL, surnamed Lupus, or the Wolf, from the violence of his temper. He was also an adventurer with the Conqueror, and obtained many large manors in England, besides those granted to his father, particularly Weston n Gordano, Stawell, etc., in the co. of Somerset. He m. Isabella, daughter of William, Earl of Breteuil, Pacey, Constantin, and Yvery (which alliance brought a near relationship to WILLIAM the Conqueror), and had issue,

I. ROBERT, Lord of Yvery, his heir.

II. WILLIAM GOUEL DE PERCEVAL, of whom presently.

III. John, ancestor of the Barons Harpetree and Gournay, whose male line terminated 10 RICHARD II.

Ascelin was established in the earldom of Yvery in 1119, soon after which he died, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT, EARL OF YVERY, who was in rebellion the same year against HENRY I, in Normandy, but quitting that party he was reconciled to his sovereign, and d. in 1121, without issue, when he was s. by his brother,

WILLIAM GOUEL DE PERCEVAL, surnamed Lupellus, or the Little Wolf; he held the Norman and English estates and bore the title of Earl of Yvery. Taking part with the Empress MAUD, he was in a continual state of warfare with the Barons against STEPHEN. He m. Auberie, sister to Waleran DE BELLE-MONTE, Earl of Mellent, in Normandy, and daughter of Robert, Earl of Mellent, by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Hugh, the great Earl of Vermandois, brother to Philip, and son of HENRY I, King of France. The issue of this marriage were,

I. Waleran, ancestor to the Barons of Yvery, in Normandy, whose male line terminated in 1421.

II. Ralph (who assumed his father's nickname of Lupellus) Baron of Karry, d. s. p.

III. Henry, surnamed Lupellus, s. to his brother Ralph as Baron of Karry. He was ancestor of that line, which became extinct in 1351.

IV. William, also surnamed Lupellus, ancestor to the Barons Luvel, of Dockings, Minster Luvel, and Tichmersh, Viscount Luvel, and Barons Morley, whose male line expired in 1487.

V. RICHARD, surnamed de Perceval, of whom we treat.

William Gouel de Perceval, d. between 1153-1158. His youngest son,

SIR RICHARD DE PERCEVAL, Knt., Lord of Stawell, half of Bodecombe and Eastbury in the co. of Somerset, was a distinguished commander in the holy wars. He m. a daughter of William DE MOHUN, Lord of Dunster, and had issue,

I. ROBERT DE PERCEVAL, his heir.

II. Hamelin de Perceval, d. s. p.

III. RICHARD DE PERCEVAL, heir to his brother, of whom presently.

Sir Richard de Perceval d. about 1202, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT DE PERCEVAL, Lord of Eastbury, etc., who d. without issue ante 9 EDWARD I, and was s. by his youngest brother,

RICHARD DE PERCEVAL, who was in the holy wars with his father, and d. leaving issue,

I. ROBERT, of whom presently.

II. Hugh de Perceval, who had Correville Lyndbays and Watton for his inheritance, which he afterwards made over to his younger brother John, and d. s. p. in 1277.

III. John de Perceval, from whom came the Lords of Eastbury, and the Earls of Egmont, etc.

The eldest son,

ROBERT, BARON PERCEVAL, in Ireland, Lord of Eastbury, Carhampton, Watton, Correville and Lyndbays, in Somerset; being nearly related to Strongbow, Earl of Pembroke (Sir Richard de Perceval was grandson to Aubrie de Bellemonte, daughter of Robert, Earl of Millent, and aunt to the said Earl of Pembroke, who was son to her sister Elizabeth de Bellemonte, by Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Pembroke, her husband), was early engaged in the expedition to Ireland, although there is no positive mention of him in that kingdom before 1281 (Annal O'Dempsey, fol. 364) when he sailed thither with Richard de Marle, Stephen de Borgo, and near two hundred other knights, where he so behaved with so much valour, that he acquired great possessions, and seated himself wholly in that kingdom, making over to his brothers, Hugh and John, all his lands in the co. of Somerset. Having thus deserved so well of that estate, he received summons to the Parliament held in Dublin, 1285 (ex Rot. claus. Hiberniæ) and left issue,

I. RICHARD, his heir.

II. ROBERT, who s. his brother.

Robert, Baron Perceval, d. 1285, and was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD, SECOND BARON PERCEVAL, in Ireland, who dying in 1285, was s. by his brother,

ROBERT, THIRD BARON PERCEVAL, in Ireland, of Portlester, in the co. of Meath. He was a man of high consideration in those parts. In two rolls of the Magnates Hiberniæ, his name is found, and in the 30 EDWARD I, A.D. 1301, he received letters from the King of England, requiring his attendance in the Scottish wars, and again soon after a letter of credence was sent in behalf of Geoffrey Geymull, and John Wogan, the King's justiciary in Ireland, requiring him to confide in those persons and referring him, as to his conduct as to that expedition, to the verbal instructions which they were ordered to give him. He m. Grace, daughter of Thomas FITZMAURICE, first Baron of Kerry and Lixnaw, in Ireland. (She was nearly related to him, being descended from Basil de Clare, sister to the Earl of Pembroke, before mentioned, and wife of Raymond le Gross, father of Morris Fitz-Raymond, father of Thomas Fitzmaurice, father of this lady), and had issue, THOMAS, of whom presently. But engaging in battle with the Irish, he was unfortunately slain with William de Wellestie, the 22nd October, 1303, and was buried in the priory of Youghal, to which he was a great benefactor, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS DE PERCEVAL, Lord of Moricetown, in Kildare, paid ten shillings for one fourth of his services in the expedition to Sexenedy, under Sir John Wogan, Lord Justice of Ireland, as appears on the great roll of the pipe 1296, and the same sum for his services in the expedition to Athissell in 1330, 5 EDWARD III. He was sheriff of Kildare 10 EDWARD II, 1316, and in 1330. He had issue two sons,

I. WILLIAM (Sir), Lord of Moricetown, was one of the Knights who became security for Maurice Fitzgerald, Earl of Kildare, in 1347, as appears in the roll of the pleas in the court of King's Bench for that year. He had issue. From him and his brother descend the PERCEVALS of Ireland, except the Templehouse branch and the other lines of the Egmont house.

II. JOHN, of Dunbrody, co. Wexford, who m. and had a son, Simon, of Dunbrody, 1440, who also m. and had a son, John, 1373.

Sir William Betham, Ulster King of Arms, in recording the pedigree in the office of Arms, after reciting the above-named generations goes on to say: "1373-48 EDWARD III. On the Patent Roll of the Chancery of Ireland is an entry that John Percival and John Brown gave half a mark for a writ, as did also Nicholas Tallon.

"After this period, the English power gradually became weaker, and the records, both the Plea Rolls, and the Pipe and Patent Rolls diminished in size very much, so that the information contained therein throws little light on family history. In the reigns of HENRY IV, V, and VI, and EDWARD IV, the Royal Writ did not run forty miles in length and twenty in breadth in all Ireland, so that we have not the intermediate generations between this Sir William de Percival and Christopher, the first in the Knightsbrook line. Robert de Percival, the father of Thomas, and grandfather of William, is called in Lord Egmont's pedigree the eldest son of Richard, son of Richard, who went to Ireland with Strongbow, and is called a Baron of Ireland, but there is no evidence of his summons to the Parliament in Ireland in 1285, for there is no Close Roll of that year with which I am acquainted, nor does there appear on the Irish records, any entry of Richard and Robert, who are said to have been his sons. Thomas was his son, and had his estates, as above stated. There were about six generations between Sir William de Percival, of Moricetown, and Christopher Percival, the first of the Knightsbrook family. The Irish Percivals bore the spancelled horse for their arms. The Very Rev. Hugh Percival, dean of Ross, and his descendants also bore these arms, which were never borne by the English Percivals."

The pedigree of the Knightsbrook branch is then resumed by Sir William Betham, in the above-mentioned record. It may be here mentioned that in this the family name is spelt PERCIVAL throughout, but the present representative has reverted to the ancient spelling.

CHRISTOPHER PERCYVALL, of Dublin (son of GABRIEL PERCYVALL, of St. Margaret's, London Bridge, by Elizabeth, his wife, who was buried at Richmond 18th September, 1595, and grandson of JOHN PERCYVALL, of St. Sepulchre's, London), whose will was dated 14th December, 1605, and proved 3rd February, 1607, left issue, by Hester, his wife, Odell.

THE LATE MAJOR WILLIAM HENRY ODELL, of Rookwood, Fredericton, New Brunswick, b. at Fredericton, 6th May, 1852; entered Royal Military College, Sandhurst, in 1869, from which he was gazetted to a commission in the 52nd Light Infantry 30th December, 1871; promoted captain 11th March, 1882, major, 16th March, 1892. He served in South Africa, receiving the South African medal and clasp for 1879, and was mentioned in despatches. He d. s. p. 1894.

Lineage.

The ODELL family in England is an ancient one, having been founded there by WALTER FLANDRENSIS, who came over with the Conqueror in 1066, and, as his share of the spoils of conquest, received, among other states, that of Wadehull or Wahull (now Odell) in Bedfordshire. From this possession, which he made his principal stronghold, Walter Flandrensis acquired the title of Baron de Wahull, and became the progenitor of a noble family of that name who were, for many generations, summoned to Parliament by the King (see BURKE'S Dormant and Extinct Peerage). The orthography of the name has gradually changed, however, from de Wahull to Wodhull, Woodhull, Wodell, Odell, etc. In a pedigree of the family in the Visitation of Northampton in 1618, we find mention of "Nicolas Woodhull alias Odell," and in All Saints Church at Mollington, Oxfordshire, may be seen a mural tablet erected in 1656, to the memory of: "Mrs. Elizabeth Woodhull, late wife of Richard Woodhull, alias Odell, Esq." The alternate use of the two names Woodhull and Odell is also found in the earlier records of the American family, a petition in 1668 by the second son of William Odell, the founder of the family in America, being signed "William Woodhull."

WILLIAM ODELL, the founder of the family in America, emigrated to New England as early as 1639, in company with the Rev. Peter Bulkeley, who was rector of the parish of Odell in Bedfordshire in 1620, and allied to the Odell family through his marriage with Grace, daughter of Sir Richard CHETWOOD. Mr. Odell settled at Concord, Massachusetts, but removed to Fairfield, Connecticut, about 1644, where he became the owner of a large estate. He d. in 1676, leaving a will, recorded at Fairfield the same year. He had issue, three sons and one daughter. The eldest son,

JOHN ODELL, of Fairfield, was made freeman in 1664, by the General Assembly; in 1666, in behalf of his father, he joined with Francis Hall in a deed of partition; in 1673 and 1682 he received grants of land from the town of Fairfield; in 1707, he made a will, appointing his wife, Mary, executrix. He had issue, two sons and three daughters. The eldest son, ENSIGN SAMUEL ODELL, of Stratfield, was b. 16th March, 1677; in 1700, he received deed of lands from his father; in 1722, was commissioned ensign by the General Assembly; in 1727, his estate was administered on, with inventory, mentioning his widow Deborah.

He had issue, two sons and three daughters. The second son,

JOHN ODELL, of Stratfield, removed to Connecticut Farms, New Jersey, and m. Temperance, daughter of Rev. Jonathan DICKINSON, First President of the College of New Jersey, whose wife was Joanna MELYEN. He d. 25th June, 1750 (will recorded at Trenton, N.J.), leaving issue, one son, Jonathan, and three daughters. The son,

JONATHAN ODELL, M.A. of Fredericton, N.B., the noted loyalist; was b. 25th September, 1737, in Newark, N.J.; in 1754 he graduated at the College of New Jersey, was educated for the medical profession, and served as surgeon in the British Army. He afterwards studied for holy orders, and in 1766 was ordained by the Bishop of London, at the Chapel Royal, St. James'. In 1767, he was appointed rector of St. Anne's Church, Burlington, N.J. He was prominent during the war of the Revolution for his sympathy for England, and was employed by General Sir Guy Carleton (Lord Dorchester) in many important and confidential trusts. He was joint author of the Loyal Verses of Stansbury and Odell. At the close of the war he removed to Fredericton, N.B., where he was made secretary of the province, and held many other responsible offices under the Crown. He m. 1772, Anne de Cou, who survived him, and d. 25th November, 1818, leaving one son, William Franklin, and three daughters. The son,

Brunswick and the United States, under the Treaty of Ghent. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Elisha NEWELL, of Allantown, N.J., and Sarah, his wife, daughter of the Rev. Samuel COOKE, D.D., sometime rector of the church at Shrewsbury, N.J., and afterwards at Fredericton. Mr. Odell, d. 25th December, 1844, leaving four sons and four daughters. The eldest son, HON. WILLIAM HUNTER ODELL, of Rookwood, Fredericton, and Halifax, N.S., b. in Fredericton, N.B., 26th November, 1811, was educated at King's College, now the University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, and graduated in the class of 1832. He studied law and was called to the bar in 1838, when he was appointed clerk of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick. He resigned this office the same year, on being made deputy provincial secretary, registrar and clerk of the Executive Council. In 1847, Mr. Odell was a judge of the Court of Common Pleas; in 1850, he was made a member of the Legislative Council, of New Brunswick, by royal warrant; in 1865, on the formation of what was known as the Anti-Confederate Government, he was appointed member of the Executive Council and postmaster-general, remaining in office until the resignation of the government the next year; in May, 1867, he was called to the Dominion Senate by royal proclamation, and for twenty-four years was a member of that honourable body. Lineage.

Eight centuries ago, GILLESPIE CAMPBELL acquired, by marriage with an heiress, the lordship of Lochow, in Argyllshire, and from him descended,

SIR COLIN CAMPBELL, of Lochow, who, distinguished as well by the great acquisitions he had made to his estate as by his achievements in war, obtained the surname of More, or Great; and from him the chief of the house is in the Gaelic styled, to this day, MACCALLAIN MORE. He was knighted by ALEXANDER III, 1280, and was one of the nominees 1291, on the part of Robert Bruce, in the contest for the crown of Scotland. This renowned and gallant chieftain was slain in a conflict with his powerful neighbour, the Lord of Lorn, at a place called the String of Lorn, where a cairn was erected over his grave. The event occasioned continued feuds for a series of years between the houses of Lochow and Lorn, which terminated at last by the marriage of the first Earl of Argyll with the heiress of Lorn. Sir Colin m. a lady of the name of St. CLAIR, and had,

- I. NEIL, his successor.
- II. Donald, ancestor of Campbell, Earl of LOUDOUN (see BURKE'S Peerage).
- III. Dugald (Sir), who swore fealty to EDWARD I, in 1296, but afterwards joined Robert Bruce.
- IV. Arthur, who having sworn fidelity with his brother to King EDWARD, like him, afterwards joined Robert Bruce, from whom he obtained two charters of the constabulary of Dunstaffnage, with the mains thereof.
- V. Duncan, likewise a supporter of the Bruce.

Sir Colin was s. by his eldest son,

SIR NEIL CAMPBELL, who was knighted by ALEXANDER III, towards the close of that monarch's reign. He swore fealty, with his brothers, in 1296, to King EDWARD, but afterwards joining Robert Bruce, adhered to him in prosperity and adversity, and fought by his side in almost every field, from the battle of Methven to that of Bannockburn. The king had so high a sense of Campbell's services that he gave him his sister, Lady Mary Bruce, in marriage, and granted to him and his said wife, and John their son, all the lands which belonged to David de Strathbogie, Earl of Atholl. When the triumph of Bannockburn had decided the independence of Scotland, Sir Neil Campbell was one of the great barons in the parliament which met at Ayr, 26th April, 1315, and fixed the succession to the Crown. Lineage.

The STRANGES descend it is said from the ancient Scotch family of STRANG of Balkaskie, whose senior line became extinct in the seventeenth century. The Strangs of Balkaskie are mentioned in 1362, as gentlemen of ancient lineage and fair estate in the eastern neuk, or corner, of Fife, holding also lands in Tweeddale some four centuries ago. John Strang of Balkaskie m. 1362, Coecelia Anstruther of Anstruther. From William Strang of Balkaskie in 1440, the line is traced until the estate was sold in 1615; the title deeds of the original lairdship of the Strangs, now in possession of the Anstruther Baronets, confirmed the alienation of the old barony under a weight of debt soon after the union of the crowns. One of the Strangs fell in 1647 at the battle of Fawside or Pinkie, so fatal to Scottish chivalry, and the landless heir of their name rose during the German wars to be Lieutenant Colonel of Cochran's Scotch Regiment. At the reformation, Sir Magnus and Sir George Strang were respectively prebendaries of St. Colme's and St. Andrew's in the Orkney Islands. Sir Magnus was also succentor of Orkney from 1544 till his death in 1565. Sir Robert Strang, the celebrated artist engraver, the son of David Strang by his wife the daughter of John SCOLLAY, of Huntou, was, it is said, a direct descendant (see memoir of him by DENNISTOUN). Sir Robert fought in the battle of Culloden in the body guard of Prince Charles. He was attainted, and sought refuge in the house of Isabella, daughter of William Lumsden, his affianced bride, whom he afterwards married. His son, Sir Thomas Strange, was a judge in H.E.I. Co's. service, among whose sons and grandsons may be mentioned Colonel Alexander Strange, Madras Cavalry; Admiral Strange, Major Charles John Strange, R.A., who distinguished himself in the Crimea. The Canadian family descends from a branch settled in the county Kerry.

MATHEW STRANGE, of Burnhouse, who also held lands in Kilbryde and Rutherglen, Lanarkshire, was b. 1635, m. Janet, daughter of A. WARDROP, of Auldhouse, in the same county, and d. 12th February, 1718, leaving issue a son,

Mr. Alexander Strang d. 15th April, 1786, having by his wife, who d. 19th January, of that year, had issue,

Burke's Landed Gentry of Great

BRITAIN AND IRELAND, being a record of the Lineage, &c., of about 4,500 Families, with a description of their Arms, Crests, &c. EIGHTH EDITION. Thoroughly Revised throughout, 1894. This edition of the Landed Gentry has been compiled from communications made by the chiefs and heads of families from their private papers, traditions and genealogies. The great aim has been to arrive at accuracy, and, in order to attain this end, every available source of information has been exhausted, and a correspondence carried on which has secured many thousands of communications from those most competent to improve and correct the work. Apocryphal statements, which had crept into former editions, have been expunged, erroneous particulars and incorrect descents discovered and omitted, and some memoirs excluded as being no longer associated with the possession of landed property. In two volumes, uniform with "The Peerage," "General Armory," &c. 2,340 pages, super royal 8vo., cloth gilt. Price £3 3s.

Burke's Peerage, Baronetage, Knight-

AGE, &c. for the present year. This Peerage and Baronetage is the only one extant which combines, in one volume, the full genealogical or past, as well as the present, account of all the Peers and Baronets of the realm. The Baronetage, incorporated with the Peerage, is complete in every detail as to the Lineage and present condition of each Baronet and his family. The Knightage has been much enlarged by the introduction of the family connections of the Knights of the several Orders of the Knights Bachelors and of the Members of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council. Precedence.—This important subject has been fully dealt with, and the Lists may be relied on as authoritative. The Peers, Baronets, and Knights, and the Companions of the several Orders of Knighthood are placed according to their relative rank; and there is given a Scale of General or Social Precedence, and a List of the Maids of Honour to the Queen, with their relative Precedence. Tables of Precedence of Diplomatic Agents; Relative Rank of the Officers of the Navy and Army; and Precedence in the Colonies, the Dominion of Canada, and the Indian Empire are also supplied. There will also be found official Lists of THE ORDER OF THE INDIAN EMPIRE, THE ROYAL ORDER OF VICTORIA AND ALBERT, THE IMPERIAL ORDER OF THE CROWN OF INDIA, THE VICTORIA CROSS, THE ALBERT MEDAL, and THE ROYAL RED CROSS. The heraldic department includes not only the engravings of the arms of both PEERS and BARONETS, but also the written blazon or descriptions. To this work is added a Key, or comprehensive Alphabetical List, by means of which every titled personage, and many others, can be easily traced. Nearly 2,000 pages, super royal 8vo., cloth gilt. Price £1 18s. (Published annually.)

"Has for more than half-a-century been regarded as containing a history of all the great titled families in the Empire. There is scarcely a page in the volume that is not full of interest. . . . There is an excellent index to the work. . . . Considerable space is devoted to the question of precedence."—Times.

"In every respect the volume appears to have been compiled with the Author's well-known scrupulous accuracy."—Daily Telegraph.

"The 'Colonial Gentry' is but an appendix to the traditional volume of Burke. . . . Sir Bernard Burke's carefully compiled volume may be regarded in the light of a historical monument."—Whitehall Review.
